DIED IN BROOKLYN

The death has occurred at Brooklyn, New York, of Mr. John F. Hickey (writes a correspondent). He was born at Ballincolly, Rathluirc, where he spent his youth and early manhood. His prowess as an athlete was high, and were it not for his early departure from his native land he probably would have risen to fame in the athletic field. The late Mr. Hickey was the youngest of four brothers, and is survived by one, Daniel, who resides at Rye, New York, where he is well known. The love of his native land was one of the many virtues of the late John F. Hickey. To see her on the pedestal of freedom was his desire, with all the graces of our ancient culture and civilisation. He was a well-known figure in Brooklyn, where he took a keen interest in golf. He is survived by two sons.

CLARE COUNCIL DOING A GOOD JOB

When William Griffey of Nuaffe, Inch, was charged at Ennis District Court, on Friday, with using a tractor the wheels of which were not fitted with rubber tyres, District Justice Hurley, B.L., said the keeping of public roads in good condition was very important and he must say that the Clare County Council did a very good job on the roads. People should help them in that work instead of hindering them. In view of the fact, however, that the defendant had co-operated with Sergeant Long in every way, he would limit the fine to 10/-. Mr. T. F. O'Reilly, solicitor, defending, said rubber was scarce and the defendant had been unable to get tyres.

"A TERRIBLE NUISANCE."

My Heart." In addition, Luana is cast with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy in "Fun And Fancy Free," while both of them have a prodigious schedule of loan-out arrangements to other studios, which are to be fulfilled as soon as feasible.

(Note—The three stars mentioned in this exclusive article appeared in Walt Disney's "Song Of The South," a Technicolor miracle, at the Savoy last week-end).

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

A reader has written asking "are Veronica Lake and Alan Ladd brother and sister." Well, this question was asked more than once in American magazines, and a great number of picture-goers were of the opinion that they were related. Their studio, Paramount, now inform me officially that they are not related, not even distantly.

CINEMA HIGHLIGHTS

Where were all Margaret O'Brien's "fans" last week, when she gave probably the greatest performance of her young life at the Grand Central in "Three Wise Fools." Some of the scenes were absolute magic and no words can adequately describe the sheer skill and artistry of this talented girl. Lack of public support necessitated taking the film off the screen after only three days. Burgess Meredith was excellent in the Savoy's "Magnificent Doll," and stole the picture in every scene in which he played. When I spoke to him last August in Dublin he stated that he started his career on the stage and liked playing in both mediums. His sincerity and personality are only two of his many attributes. He is married to film-star Paulette Goddard.

NEW UNIFORMS.

Much favourable comment has been heard on the new uniforms which are being worn by the usherettes of the Savoy Cinema. They are of royal blue, braided in gold, and bearing the initial "S" on the breast pocket. The girls have expressed themselves as being very pleased with them and more than ordinary care is now being exercised to keep them spick and span.

THE LYRIC STAGE.

Those who have been praising the stage of the Lyric Cinema (it is a grand spacious affair) will have an opportunity of seeing a show staged on it in the near future. Next month the Limerick Operatic Society will present "Rose Marie," and already many of their patrons
