

The Kon-Tiki

der's Digest contains a feast of
es. Read the amazing story of e deliberately drifted 4,000 miles Polynesia was settled 1,500 years
eir adventures on the way that er the trial are indeed rare in the ory of crime. In their cell, 9 feet by hey produced and caused to be cirated another forgery as good as their

and boasted "business as usual,"
er the most adverse conditions!

in this issue "Father Damien's er Colony"—continuing its won-
ful work after more than fifty years;
arns. You Have Immortalized me" ne story of the photographer with nack for getting results; "Beyond Doubt," a short story with a ble twist; and 22 other articles, cted for your enjoyment and
ensed to save you time.

R'S DIGEST

l continue at its present high owing to increased production
But, until January 15th, 1948,
or as long as you wish at the

S IS YOUR

criptions at these special rates!

..... 12/-
..... 20/- (saving 4/-)
..... 29/- (saving 7/-)
/- for each year.

Y PART OF THE WORLD

MAS GIFT

ary issue. We will do the rest. And why treat yourself to a subscription too?
can do so at the same special gift rates,
at act now.

..... (BLOCK LETTERS, PLEASE)

..... 2 years 1 year.

Christmas gift to:—

..... (BLOCK LETTERS, PLEASE)

..... 2 years 1 year.

..... (BLOCK LETTERS, PLEASE)

..... 2 years 1 year.

..... (BLOCK LETTERS, PLEASE)

..... 2 years 1 year.

t Association Ltd., 32 Kildare Street,
n, C.17.

ke advantage of these reduced Christ-rates now—this offer is open until January, 1948 only.

R'S DIGEST

E MRS. MOORE

DEATH OF MR. JAMES O'MARA

The death of Mr. James O'Mara, eldest son of Mrs. Minnie O'Mara and the late Mr. James O'Mara, Limerick, took place at his residence, Beechlawn, Ennis, on Monday. The deceased was a member of an old and honoured Limerick family. He was a nephew of the late Senator Stephen O'Mara and the late Mr. Joseph O'Mara, the celebrated operatic tenor.

Some years ago the late Mr. O'Mara went to reside in Ennis, where he was held in the highest esteem and regard. He occupied, at intervals, every official position attached to the Ennis Golf Club, having been, in turn, captain, treasurer and president. He was also a prominent member of the Clare Hunt.

The funeral on Wednesday from the Cathedral to Drumcliffe Cemetery was one of the most representative seen in Ennis for many years.

The public bodies of Clare were represented at the funeral, and at the solemn Requiem Mass were fourteen priests, including Very Rev. Canon Madden, P.P., Clarecastle, and Very Rev. Canon Vaughan, P.P., Quin.

The chief mourners were Mrs. Mary O'Mara (widow); Jack O'Mara (brother); Mrs. Owen Clarke, Mrs. Owen Hayes, Mrs. Bryan McMahon, Ennis; Miss Patricia O'Mara and Miss Maura O'Mara, Limerick (sisters); Bryan McMahon, solicitor; Jerry McMahon, Edmund Russell, Owen Hayes and Owen Clarke (brothers-in-law).

In addition to floral tributes from the family there were handsome wreaths from the Ennis Golf Club, the Clare Hunt, the Ennis Club. As a mark of respect to the memory of deceased the Ennis Golf Club has suspended all playing on their links until Monday next.

NEXT SUNDAY'S SAVOY CONCERT

St. Patrick's Church Building Fund should benefit considerably from the proceeds of the concert to be run under its auspices at the Savoy Theatre on next Sunday night, as a galaxy of star-talent has been engaged for the occasion. Heading the fine bill of fare is the Cork comedian, Cecil Sheehan, who will be making a special appearance with his full company. The usual comedy quota is expected from Cecil, while treats are to be provided by Pat Coughlan, and how her life is affected with this affliction. When a surgeon performs a miraculous operation, the aftermath provides some of the most tense moments ever experienced in a cinema.

Wednesday's "A Yank at Oxford" stars Robert Taylor in the film which he made in England before the war. This is a grand film full of incident, sentiment and the carefree happiness of college days. Superb supporting cast include Maureen O'Sullivan, Lionel Barrymore, Vivien Leigh and Edmund Gwenn.

Friday's "Having Wonderful Crime," is a most unusual crime drama, starring Pat O'Brien, Carol Landis and George Murphy. Supporting feature will be William Boyd in "Cassidy of Bar 20."

* * *

TIVOLI—Wally Brown and Alar Carney are the famous comedy team heading the cast of Monday's hilarious naval comedy—"Seven Days Ashore." The support, "Petticoat Larceny," features John Carroll.

Wednesday's "The Devil's Mask" is quite a good thriller, with plenty of eerie moments. Jim Bannon and Anita Louise head the cast. The support, "The Poisoner," is a Western, starring Charles Starrett.

Friday's "Pillow to Post" is a most amusing army comedy, in

COLLEGE PLAYERS

—oo—

NEXT WEEK'S DOUBLE TREAT

On Monday night next the curtain goes up at the Playhouse on one of the most ambitious performances of the College Players when "Maurice Harte," by T. C. Murray, will be presented, preceded by Sean O'Casey's one act "A Pound On Demand." Murray is seen at his brilliant best in this moving and poignant presentation of the story of the Harte family and the hopes and pride they place in the future of the brilliant Maurice.

As the story moves towards its gripping climax, the hearts of the mother and son, torn by conflicting emotions, are laid bare. The selection of a cast capable of doing justice to "Maurice Harte" called for much deliberation but those chosen can be relied upon to put up a performance in the best traditions of this group. The producer, Tadg O Ceallaigh, is to be congratulated on the perfection his cast has attained. The name part will be played by P. J. Fitzgibbon, and Miss Lily Skehan, already well known to Limerick playgoers, makes a most auspicious debut as a College Player. The cast also includes Sean