

Mr. J. O'Halloran, the ident of Shannon Rowing Club, on his part, may not be conversant with the terminology of golf, but his art of speech-making is a "plus 4" man, and his spontaneous humour is a small way to the entertainment of the evening.

Mr. G. Dolan, in referring to Mr. O'Halloran, paid a tribute to the spirit of good-fellowship and rivalry shown in the competition, and congratulated the members of Shannon Rowing Club on the success of their team in the Cup which was won (6), was then presented with a silver cup.

MRS. MURPHY, CLOVERFIELD.

The death took place on May 18th of Mrs. Ellen Murphy, Cloverfield, Pallasgreen. Mrs. Murphy, who was just middle aged, had been in delicate health for some time, but the end came suddenly and was a great shock to her sorrowing husband, son and daughter, to whom deepest sympathy is extended. Her remains were removed to Killeely Church on May 19th, and the funeral took place on May 20th after Office and High Mass at Emly.

Rev. Father O'Keeffe, C.C., Killeely, was the celebrant of the Mass, and the other clergy present were: Rev. Father McElligott, P.P., Killeely; Rev. Dr. Heffernan, P.P., Galbally; Very Rev. Canon Ryan, P.P., Pallasgreen; Rev. Father Byrne, C.C., Emly; Rev. Father Keogh, C.C., Galbally, and Rev. Father Fitzgerald, C.C., Pallasgreen.

The chief mourners were: William Murphy (husband), Kathleen Murphy (daughter), Michael Murphy (son), Edmond and Thomas Hanly (brothers); Mrs. Ed. Hanly (sister-in-law), Ed. Murphy (brother-in-law); Messrs. T. Purcell, P. Purcell, L. Murphy, R. Doherty, W. Cussen, Mrs. A. Hyland, Mrs. K. Murphy, Misses M. Murphy and A. Harty (all first cousins); Rev. Fr. O'Neill, Messrs. J. Corbett and E. King, Mrs. E. Murphy, Misses M. King, N. King and M. Hanly relatives).

The many other cousins and sympathisers are too numerous to mention.

ONE OF BELL'S GREAT CURES

The vital years

NEAVE'S is the nourishing food needed by the very young to lay a sound foundation of body strength and vitality for later years. It is appetising, and easy to digest. Babies take to it instantly and thrive quickly, getting over teething and weaning periods without danger or fuss. Invalids and growing children, too, will benefit from a nightly sleep-inducing cup of Neave's. Try them with it!
