

ENTERED THE RELIGIOUS LIFE

Miss Maura Bugler, daughter of Denis Bugler and Mrs. Bugler, Market Square, Scariff, entered the Sisters of Mercy Convent at Dunman, on Friday last. This tall young lady (writes our Killarney correspondent) is after completing her course at Seamount College, Dara, where she took the Leaving Certificate with honours in all subjects. She attributes much of her success to the careful training received in Scariff Primary School, under the able tuition of Miss A. Moloney, N.T.

of this scholarship would it enable him to go abroad?

E.O.—It would.

Father O'Brien—I wonder would he be in a position to take up employment? The idea would be to give him half a scholarship.

E.O.—When the fellow has got his diploma, and now has got his diploma, he should be able to find some employment and support himself, and study at the same time.

The C.E.O. cited the cases of some students who had taken up employment as artistic painters in London and at the same time continued their studies.

Father O'Brien—That is my point. The C.E.O., in reply to a member, said that Gayer was born in England and had come from that country when war broke out.

On the proposition of Father Lee, seconded by Mr. O'Connell, it was decided to award the scholarship to Thomas Ryan.

Mr. O. Tuathalgh—I agree with you, and I think it is a matter of regret that we cannot support Gayer this year. We have spent close on £300 on him.

Mr. O'Connell—Would there be any use in asking the Department to give consideration to Gayer?

The C.E.O. said that he had that in mind. Gayer was actually a student in the College of Art in Dublin, which was run by the Department, and thought that they would do something about it. The Department could be informed that the resources of the Committee would not allow for a continuation of the scholarship for Gayer, and he could be asked to give consideration of Gayer's case.

His suggestion was unanimously agreed to.

the reports Mr. Kenny admitted the offence and nothing now remained but to fix the penalty.

The fishery laws, added Mr. Blood-Smyth, were very technical, and for years there had been talk about consolidating them, but nothing had been done, the result being that they were now in a hopeless jumble. Statutes had been altered now and again and it was like dealing with a mystery to get at them now. He had been dealing with the fishery laws for a long time and knew what he was talking about, and he really pitied anyone else who had to deal with them. In view of the attitude of the defence, he did not press for a severe penalty, one-third, of which would go to the Board of Conservators and one-third to the Garda Reward Fund.

Justice Gordon Hurley, B.L., imposed a fine of £1 10s., with 19/- costs, and said he was always glad to have the assistance of Mr. Blood-Smyth in fishery cases.

FEENAGH P.T.A.A.

At the monthly meeting of the Feenagh Centre of the Pioneer Total Abstinence Association held at the Library, Feenagh, on Friday, September 24th, a resolution was passed protesting against the Bill which proposes to increase drinking facilities on Sundays throughout the country, and calling on the T.D.s of the constituency to oppose the measure in the Dail.—J. Egan, Sec.

by thousands of miles, carried an animated conversation for minutes, dealing with a variety of topics. The "call" was put through in the first instance to convey her day congratulations to the young lady at Shannon, who, being extremely popular with her friends at the Airport, was literally showered with felicitations during the day.

CITY 'BUS SERVICE.

Alderman James Reidy, T.D., received from the Road Transport Department of C.I.E., in response to representations made by him, assurance that the city 'bus service will be improved and extended in the near future. In its communication C.I.E. states that it has decided "to completely revise existing services operating in Limerick City, and to provide a service to Corbally, Fair Green and Harrington's Pier." The Corporation is not in a position to give effect to this scheme right off because sufficient 'buses are not available. It is expected that by mid-November the new services will be in operation. This will be welcome news for the citizens, who have been clamouring for more 'buses for years past.

A GRIEVANCE.

Talking of the city 'bus service might not be out of place to voice a grievance under which people living in Upper William Street and neighbourhood are labouring. At the William St.-Wickham junction, there is a 'bus stop for the letting down of passengers. So far, so good. But people may desire to board a 'bus at that point will not be permitted. So—they must, in fact, trudge to O'Connell St. (Roche's St.) There is not much sense in this and much less consideration for the public. Why people are not allowed to board a 'bus at the William St. corner baffles the intelligence of ordinary people.
