CRUISE'S HOTEL

—oo—

POSSIBLE RE-OPENING THIS WEEK

The re-construction of Cruise's Hotel is now nearing completion. To-day, workmen were busily engaged adding the finishing touches to what appears in every way an excellent job of craftsmanship.

Mr. Donnelly, late of the Hydro Hotel, Kilkee, who has been appointed manager of Cruise's, told a "Limerick Leader" reporter this afternoon that he intends to open the hotel to the public at the end of this week.

The old Cruise's has undergone so much re-construction that it could be hardly recognised inside. There is evidence of comfort in every part of the palatial building, which is lavishly furnished with the most modern equipment.

There are sixty-one daintily furnished bedrooms as against 48 in the old establishment. There is a cocktail bar, lounge bar, dining hall, drawing room, private dining room, commercial room, and private drawing room with hot and cold water in every room.

There is also a passenger escalator which is the first of its kind in Limerick.

In every way the new Cruise's is a striking example of up-to-date architecture.

It is expected that the spacious ballroom in the Hotel will be opened in February next.

The staff will number 48, including a hairdresser, who will be assigned to a special compartment.

THE UNEMPLOYED

The numbers of unemployed registered at the Employment Exchange, Co. changes have risen from 46,604 on October 23rd to 60,775 on November 6th.

continue further out the Ennis Road to the Meelick river, and from this point facing north up to where the Ennis railway line could be picked up, and from there back citywards again and finish at the Longpavement.

THE WET PATCHES.

It must be admitted that within this suggested line there are a few wet patches, but here is a chance for the idea of every Town Planner being fulfilled. These patches are the ideal for green or shelter belt planting and a swamp could be easily converted in a few years into a nice green shrubbery that would give approaches to the city, on all sides, a park-like and lovely appearance, and this would help to eliminate the flooded eyesores that occur yearly.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, and apologising for trespassing on your valuable space,

"MILESTONE."

COUNTY COUNCIL DECISION

Limerick County Council on Saturday last appointed a deputation to wait on the Minister for Local Government and put before him the Council's views on the borough boundary extension question. A full report of the Council's discussion will appear on our next week-end issue.

DIRECT LABOUR

Referring to the housing question at a meeting in Wexford, Mr. Murphy, Minister for Local Government, said he was confident that the movement for the use of direct labour would continue to spread and that the obvious benefits which direct labour could show in affording a corrective to excessive prices and in supplementing contract building were manifesting themselves in every part of the country.

NOT THIS YEAR

It is very unlikely that the necessary formalities for the Borough Boundary Commission will be completed before the current financial year next. In that event territorial change is in prospect for the year next. There are innumerable details to be dealt with, such as the division of townlands, the re-valuation, the re-arrangement of boundaries, preparation of maps and so on. But before the stage is reached the Oireachtas to the Commission the boundary must be pushed out of the window. It is not so simple as it seems to think.

IRISH CUP.

Coursing enthusiasts are looking forward to the fixture at famed Clonsilla. The indications are that the meeting will set up a record from the point of view of attendance. Well, hotel charges are unusually heavy. It is aware that Clonsilla was back in 1919, used as a political meeting place by a Republican leader—Stack—and the Viceroy's period, Lord Wimborne was, of course, "on the ground". Wimborne guaranteed the conduct through the sportsmen, the late solicitor. Nothing was inspired from the excitement that took place.
