

Irish films, which, he pointed out, were easily procurable.

The evening was brought to a close with a ceillidhe, which all present acclaimed as being the best ever held in the city. Vocal items were contributed by Rev. Father O'Dea, Maire Ni Scolaidhe, Maire Ni Neachtain and Mr. J. Penny. Masters of ceremonies at the ceillidhe were Messrs. Tadhg O'Ceallaigh, Dalach O Ciardha and Tomas de Faoite.

NEXT SUNDAY'S SAVOY CONCERT

Making a very welcome return visit to Limerick on Sunday next will be Jack Cruise and Joe Duffy, comedians, assisted by Miss Patty Ryan, in several sketches. Supporting artistes include James Penny, tenor, and lady accordionist Imelda Smith. The de Lacy twins and their troupe will be seen in song, dance, Irish and tap routines. John Enright will preside at the theatre organ. The concert will be in aid of the O'Donoghue Memorial Fund.

PHEASANTS PLENTIFUL

The local sportsmen, it is stated (writes our Killaloe correspondent), shot a goodly number of pheasants in the Broadford, Mountshannon and Ballinahinch districts last week. The birds were very plentiful.

licence without hesitation. Seventy-five per cent of city accidents occurred because motorists speeded through crossings, and it was quite clear here that had both defendants been travelling slowly no accident would have occurred.

DEATH OF MR. W. COLLINS, ADARE

The recent death of Mr. William Collins, Avenue, Adare, has deprived the district of one of its most popular figures. The late "Bill" Collins, as he was widely known, was a keen sportsman, and had been attached to the Adare Coursing Club for many years.

He served overseas with the Royal Engineers during the first World War, and on returning to this county he worked on the Dunraven Estate.

His remains were laid to rest in the family burial ground at Castleconnell.

YOUTH HOSTELLING

As will be seen from an advertisement on page one, a lecture on "Youth Hostelling at Home and Abroad" will be delivered in the Technical Institute, Limerick, tomorrow (Saturday, 13th inst.) by Professor Cecil King. The lecture, which will be illustrated by slides, will commence at 8 p.m. and admission will be free.

Daniel Cronin, Livestock Inspector, gave evidence of visiting the la on the date mentioned. He found a light roan Shorthorn bull, which was calved about May, 1947. At time he saw it, it was grazing with ten cows and one heifer. The defendant told witness that he did not know the bull's age but he intended to have it presented for inspection in August, 1948. The bull should have been presented for inspection in March.
