"Penmanship, so universally professed and so little known, is taught in his school in the most correct, genuine and masterly style; together with such other branches of school education: Arithmetic, Book-keeping, Euclid, Algebra, etc., as any of his pupils may have particular occasion for."

Another time MacElligott, to vary the rigmarole, advertises:—"Richard MacElligott, Classical and English teacher, reluctantly enrolls himself in the Dramatic Personae of the Pedagogue Pantomime of 1793, confident that his past exertions secure him the attachment of his hurt many this season, and sufficiently enubilate, why he yet makes it known, with humanity for the public, that he infallibly cures a few diseases with safety and expedition, which he has been in the habit of doing gratis in better times for 30 years, such as dysentery (in 24 hours), the inveterate cold and chincough, and eradicates the newly contracted asthma! He heals bleeding of the nose, and takes pearls off eyes with equal success; for all of which testimonials can be adduced. In the times that are, the compensation required for each disease is but one guinea, and that only when a cure can be perfectly effected. The severest cough but one crown."

BENCH WARRANT

MAN WHO DID NOT APPEAR

A bench warrant for the arrest of John Meehan, Ballyallinan South, Rathkeale, was issued from Rathkeale District Court on Monday last by Justice C. S. Kenny, B.L.

Meehan was charged, on summons, with the larceny of a bicycle lamp, the property of Maurice Hayes.

The defendant did not appear when his case was called in the morning. The Justice allowed the case to stand in the day's list until shortly before the rising of the Court in the late afternoon.

When Meehan's name was again called, he did not answer it, nor did any solicitor appear on his behalf.

Supt. J. J. Cooney, Adare, who prosecuted, said the charge was by way of a summons, service of which, on the defendant's mother, was proved.

Justice—Arrest him immediately.

The bench warrant for Meehan's arrest was then issued.

LANDSLIDE AT KILLALOE

On Monday morning last (writes our Killaloe correspondent) part of the Ayle Bhan gave way and filled up some of the back yards of the houses on the canal bank, Killaloe. Fortunately, however, no one was hurt.

LATE FATHER HAYES

CORPORATION REFERENCE

At the meeting of the Limerick Corporation on Monday night, the Mayor (Mr. M. B. O'Malley, scir.) presiding, Ald. James Reidy, T.D., referred to the death, in America, of Rev. James Hayes, Maynooth Mission to China. Father Hayes was, he said, a truly patriotic priest and his death had revived memories of the revolution that took place from 1916 to 1921. The Hayes family played a noble part in that revolutionary movement, and the news of the death of Father Hayes had filled them all with sorrow. He proposed that the sympathy of the Council be conveyed to his brother, Dr. R. Hayes, Film Censor, and to his nephew, Dr. R. Hayes, S.M.O.H. for the City, and the other members of the family in their bereavement.

The vote was seconded unanimously and passed with respectful sympathy.

SHOP HOURS

(To the Editor, "Limerick Leader.")

Dear Sir—Having read the Clanna Poblachta report on shop hours in your issue of December 1st, let me say that most of our customers are carpenters, plumbers, timber and flour mill workers, and such like, all of whom promptly cease work at the stroke of the clock at 5.30 or 6 p.m. If they are so exacting, why should they expect shopkeepers to work such unconscionably long hours as to 9 or 10 p.m.? On the other hand, some recent strikes have included in their demands the shortening of hours. If any shop does wish to keep open till 9 or 10 p.m., let it not open till 1 or 2 o'clock in the day.

Yours faithfully,

"A LIMERICK SHOPKEEPER."
