LIQUOR LAWS
Glin "Breaches"
PUBLICANS FINED

John Foley, Main Street, Glin, was fined twice at the local District Court on Wed., 6th inst., for breaches of the licensing laws on Christmas Day and St. Patrick's Day.

Justice C. S. Kenny, B.L., sitting in the village for the first time in a number of months because the Courthouse was being renovated; said that, according to law, he'd have to take the two cases separately.

Inspector Byrnes prosecuted and Mr. P. O'Reilly, solr., Listowel, defended.

LADDER INSIDE THE WALL.
 Sergeant McKeown, in the first case, said that shortly after ten o'clock on the morning of last Christmas Day, he saw a man climbing over a wall into the defendant's premises. Witness looked over the wall, against which on the inside, a ladder had been placed, and saw two men. He called them and they came up the ladder to him. They said they had gone in for a drink, which they didn't get. Foley denied, when subsequently questioned by witness, that he had seen them at all. In the bar, which he examined, witness found glasses with traces of recent usage. The defendant said they had been left unwashed overnight.

Mr. O'Reilly said he had to admit that the men were in the yard but submitted that if there was any offence committed, it was merely a technical one.

The Justice imposed a fine of £2.

In the second case, evidence was given that at eleven o'clock in the morning of St. Patrick's Day, one man was found in the defendant's house. The explanation was that the man was waiting to go hunting. A pint glass, bearing traces of stout, was found in the bar.

Mr. O'Reilly, admitting the offence, sought mitigation because the man found in the house was there for the purpose of discussing hunting and not for drink. He reminded the Justice that Foley, a poor man with a large family, had been fined already that day.

The Inspector said the breaches were committed on the two worst days of the year. The next offence, he said, might be committed on Good Friday.

Imposing a fine of £2 in this case, the Justice said that if Foley came before him again he'd fine him £10 and endorse his licence.

He fined the men found on the premises 5s. each.

"BIKE" TAKEN
From Outside Church
YOUNG LABOURER GETS JAIL

The taking of a bicycle from outside a church had a sequel before Justice C. S. Kenny, B.L., at Dromcollogher Court.

Patrick Flanagan, labourer, aged 18 years, of Cappanahane, Bruree, was brought up in custody on a charge of stealing a gent's bicycle, the property of James Keogh, at Charleville, on the 17th March. Inspector Butler, G.S., Newcastle West, prosecuted; Mr. P. T. Liston, solr., Rathkeale (Messrs. P. T. Liston and Co.), defended.

Accused elected to be dealt with summarily.

ON SIMILAR CHARGE AT ADARE.
 Sergt. Duggan, Charleville, in reply to the Justice, said the defendant had already been before him on a similar charge at Adare on Monday when he received a suspensory sentence, for the larceny of a bicycle the property of Edward O'Rourke, Bruree, on the 20th March. At that time they were investigating the larceny of the bicycle belonging to Keogh, and it was only on the day following the Court that they got information connecting the accused with the second charge.

Mr. Liston said the charge was being admitted.

The Sergt., continuing, said that Keogh's bicycle was taken from outside the Church, at Charleville, while the people were attending 10 o'clock Mass on the 17th March. The Gardai had no suspicion on the defendant then, until the other case arose when they had the accused before his Worship, at Adare. After the Court in Adare, they got the information which led to the recovery of the bike in respect of which the present charge was brought and they traced the purchaser. When questioned, defendant admitted taking the bicycle, which he sold for £1. The bike belonged to a van driver.

SOLICITOR'S PLEA.
 Mr. Liston said accused had an uncle who was a farmer and who would undertake to take charge of him. He suggested that the present charge be left stand for, say, 3 or 6 months, to see how he would behave in the meantime.

Justice—He got that chance already but it was unfortunate that this case was not known at the time. I have already put a suspensory sentence on him for the other bicycle and if I had known that there were 2 cases against him he would never have got away. I might give him a chance, but when I find him taking 2 bicycles I could not allow that. I think a month will not do him any harm. The usual order was made for the restoration of the bicycle to the owner.

FELL FROM 'BUS
Conductor Fatally
Injured
HOW ACCIDENT OCCURRED

An inquest was held at the Co. Hospital, Croom, on Wednesday, 6th inst., by Dr. J. P. Clery, Coroner for East Limerick, and a Jury, touching the death of David O'Leary (45), bus conductor, of Newcastle West, who died in the County Hospital, Croom, early that morning as a result of injuries received when he fell from a bus near Dromcollogher, on Tuesday evening.

Sergeant Lynch, Dromcollogher, gave formal evidence of identification.

Richard Owens, bus driver, Ballinagown, Newcastle West, said that on April 5th he was driving a bus from Cork to Newcastle West. David O'Leary, the deceased, was a conductor on the bus. "I arrived at Dromcollogher at about 8.10 p.m. witness continued, and the conductor had some parcels to deliver and we had a delay of about 5 minutes. The deceased was sober and he gave me the signal to proceed from Dromcollogher towards Newcastle West. About a mile outside Dromcollogher, I heard a tapping at the glass on the cab, and a person say the conductor was after falling out the door. I stopped immediately and went back and I found him lying on the road unconscious, about 300 yards behind. I was travelling at about 30 miles an hour. It was a straight road; I did not find any bump before the tapping."

To the foreman (Mr. J. O'Brien)—There was only one passenger in the bus at the time.

HOW DECEASED FELL OUT.
 Garrett O'Mahony, of Springfield, Broadford, Charleville, a hackney driver, said:—On the 5th April, 1949, I boarded the bus at Milford, at 8 p.m. I was sitting on a seat opposite the exit door. I knew the bus conductor, David O'Leary, and I started chatting with him. He was sober and in his usual form. When we reached Dromcollogher, we stopped at the Depot—O'Shea's—and the deceased handed out seven small parcels to youngsters and he carried some big parcels into O'Shea's himself. He was only about 3 minutes inside. He came out and into the bus and signalled the driver to go on. The door of the bus was open when the bus started and the conductor sat down in a seat facing me and started to do his accounts. The bus was travelling at its normal rate. When David O'Leary, the deceased, finished his accounts, he put the sheets and tickets up on the rack. Shortly afterwards, he stood up and walked to the door. He knew I was getting off about a quarter of a mile from where we were then, and he got down on the step. He held his left hand behind his back holding a bar on the bus and another bar with his right hand. There was no traffic on the road. I next saw that the deceased had his right hand taken off the bar and then I saw him grip and fell on to the road on his right side. I immediately tapped the window of the driver's cab and the bus stopped immediately. It was in Ballinlogig this happened. The driver and I rushed back to where deceased was and found him unconscious, his head facing the grass margin, and his legs turned out on the road. He was moaning a little, and we lifted him up and took him to a dry part of the road. A motor van came along from Dromcollogher and we put him into the van and the driver of the van took him to the Home in Newcastle West."

DOCTOR'S EVIDENCE.
 Dr. John O'Connell, House Surgeon, County Hospital, Croom, said that at 11.30 p.m. on the 5th April, David O'Leary, the deceased, was carried to the County Hospital in a state of deep coma, and showed obvious signs of fracture of the skull. He was bleeding from the nose and ears. Death took place at 4.40 a.m. on the 6th April (Wednesday). He performed a post mortem examination which revealed no cardiac abnormalities. The injuries to the skull of deceased could have been caused by deceased falling from a bus on to the road. In witness's opinion the cause of death was fracture of the base of the skull.

The Jury returned a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence that death was due to fracture of the base of the skull, as a result of a fall off a bus, which was accidental.

SYMPATHY.
 The Coroner, the Foreman of the Jury, Dr. O'Connell and Sergeant Lynch and Sergeant Crotty, G.S., Croom, and Mr. D. McClement, solr., Cork, on behalf of the C.I.E., voted sympathy to the deceased.

Mr. Michael O'Leary, P.C., Cork, brother of the deceased, returned thanks for the expressions of sympathy.

The deceased leaves a widow and three young children, and for them and the other bereaved relatives the deepest sympathy is felt.

REVIEWS OF COALITION'S
WORK

A Tournafulla labourer, John Sullivan, of Ballycommane, Tournafulla, went to Abbeyfeale with £54 in his pocket to employ a solicitor to transfer to him a small farm of land held by his father. He was unable to find the solicitor and, on his way home, he pinned the money (£40 of which was in £10 notes) to his inside pocket. He called to the house of a neighbour, Mary Reidy, before he reached home, and when he left, the money was gone.

PLEA OF GUILTY.
 That was the story told to Judge Barra O'Brien in the Limerick Circuit Criminal Court, when Mary Reidy (31), Ballycommane, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing the £54. She was not professionally represented and said nothing whatever in her defence.

Mr. W. Binchy, B.L. (instructed by the State Solicitor, Mr. Maurice M. Power), who prosecuted, told the Judge that on the way home from Abbeyfeale, immediately before last Christmas, where he had been endeavouring to get a plot of land transferred to his name, Sullivan called on the accused at the cottage in which she lived with her child and aunt. He had £54 pinned to his statement, fell asleep beside the fire. A short time after leaving he found the money missing.

"SHE BURNED THEM."
 Counsel said that the accused admitted to the Guards that she had had the money in her possession, but, becoming afraid of the four £10 notes, she burned them. She said she found the roll of notes in the ashes when cleaning it out. Only £8 of the money was recovered. Accused, he added, was unmarried and lived in a cottage with her aunt in very poor circumstances. She, said Mr. Binchy, had twice previously been convicted on charges of larceny.

The Judge sentenced the accused to 12 months imprisonment.

FINE GAEL
Meetings

Mr. D. J. Madden, T.D., addressed a Fine Gael meeting in the Hall, Ballingarry, Mr. McDonnell, Chairman of the local Fine Gael Branch presided.

Mr. Madden gave a lengthy review of "the work done by the present Government since it took office. Continuing, he said: "Is there now a big change. Calves are not making up to £10 a head. There is now a guaranteed price for eggs, wheat and barley. This year we are to expend 15 million pounds to restore the soil of the country." He then dealt with the scheme already outlined by Mr. Dillon at Limerick and then stated that a Bill was to be introduced giving power to Co. Councils to carry out drainage schemes. "Those schemes," he added "will not cost the taxpayer one penny; they will be met by the Government."

QUESTION OF MILK PRICE
 Dealing with the demand for an increased price of milk Deputy Madden showed that out of 26 counties there were 22 which did not want an increase. "If certain things come off, which I hope they will very soon," he went on, "the farmer will not know what price to ask for his milk. When we go out of office we will leave behind us peace, happiness and prosperity, a complete achievement and indication of the work of the Inter-Party Government for our Motherland."

Mr. Michael Madden also addressed the meeting. He said the prophets were confounded when they foretold that doom would overtake this country when the Inter-Party Government took office. The labourers, he said, had now secured decent wage and the farmer is being enabled to live happily and bring happiness to the homes of the workers.

LOUGHILL BRANCH
 Addressing a meeting of Loughill Fine Gael Branch, Mr. Michael Madden said that the strength of Government did not rest on the number of regimented Deputies who responded to the will of a party whip but on the broadness of its base and the true representation of the greater numbers of the people in its Councils. Dealing with Government policy, Mr. Madden stated that taxation had been reduced as promised and would be reduced to £65 million for the coming year, whereas Fianna Fail was in power it would be safe to say that taxation would be in the region of £77½ millions.

Mr. Madden went on to say that £55,000,000 would be spent during the years ahead to make the land richer and more productive.

A GREAT FUTURE
 "There is," he said, "a great future before us. It is a future of peace and contentment and prosperity. The measure of its greatness can be found only in the industry, hard work and morale of our people."

Mr. J. J. O'Rourke presided. Mr. Madden subsequently received many deputations and complaints on behalf of Mr. D. J. Madden, T.D. who was in Dublin attending to his Parliamentary duties.

CHARGED.

Also charged under the licensing law was John T. Culhane, Church Street, Glin.

Sergt. McKeown said that at 12.37 p.m. on Sunday, 14th November last, he found two men in the defendant's house. The defendant told him the two men had called for a drink and had got it.

The Sergeant added that Culhane was not long in business.

Culhane, who was not professionally represented, told the Justice that he didn't properly understand the licensing regulations.

Justice—I'm afraid it will be expensive on you if you don't learn them.

A fine of 10s. was imposed, the two men found in the house being fined 2s. 6d. each.

This is, indeed, an appetising spread: sandwiches in variety, hot toast, delicious cakes and pastries. Not easy with present shortages you may say, to serve such a meal... and it certainly isn't unless you use SUNROSE margarine. But with Sunrose as a base for the sandwiches, lightly smeared on the crisp toast, and as an ingredient in the cooking of light, airy cakes, you'd be surprised how tasty your meals can become.
