LIMERICK COUNTY COUNCIL

Water Supply Schemes NEEDS OF SEVERAL AREAS STRESSED

MR. J. W. Carty, Chairman, presided at a meeting of the Limerick Co. Council on Saturday last. The other members present were: Senator M. O'Dwyer, Messrs. J. C. Barrett, P. Clobessy, P. H. Donegan, M. J. K. Dore, solr.; P. Fitzsimons, J. Hayes, T. Hennessy, M. Hickey, P. Langan, P. Lillis, J. Mackey, D. J. Madden, P.D.; P. Maguire, D. McAuliffe, P. T. McCarthy, J. J. McNamara, T. O'Connell, P. M. O'Connor, M. O'Donnell, D. O'Grady, J. Quaid, D. P. Quaid and P. W. Ryan.

The officials in attendance included the Co. Manager (Mr. P. J. Meghen), the Co. Secretary (Mr. C. F. Broe), the Co. Medical Officer of Health (Dr. J. McPolin), the Co. Engineer (Mr. G. Aherne), the Consulting Engineer (Mr. P. J. Sheahan), and Mr. J. J. King, Chief Officer, Public Health Department.

MR. MAGUIRE moved, pursuant to notice, that a water supply be provided for Kibbenny—a village, he said, of 220 inhabitants, who represented the best type of ratepayer in the county.

Chairman—Mr. Sheahan's report states there are only 120 persons in Kibbenny. He says it would cost £4,200 to provide the water supply. That seems to be very excessive. Mr. Maguire said the people of Kibbenny were entitled to a proper water supply system, of which they were badly in need.

MR. SHEAHAN explained that from a spring near the village a superabundance of good water could be piped at the approximate cost mentioned by the Chairman. Mr. Quaid—They are very badly in need of a water supply in that village.

MR. MCNAMARA—Half of the people whose towns have water supplies are not availing of it. Why are we flinging money around like that? Mr. Maguire said that the provision of even a couple of fountains would ease the position in Kibbenny.

MR. MADDEN said that where water supply systems are concerned the smallest villages are as important as the largest towns. MR. HAYES expressed satisfaction at this information and hoped that the scheme would be got under way without delay.

CASTLECONNELL SCHEME. In reply to Mr. Mackey, the Co. Secretary said he had been told by the Department that no grant would be made available for the proposed water supply scheme at Castleconnell. The Department was interesting itself in the matter, however, and had asked for a report from the Co. M.O.H. on the town's claim for a scheme. He would bring this report before the next meeting of the Council.

The Secretary added that the fact of the Department's failure to give the Castleconnell scheme a Transition Fund Grant didn't necessarily mean that no State money would be available to aid the Council in providing the town with water. They were hoping to get an E.S.V. grant. The question was adjourned to the next meeting for the report of the Co. M.O.H.

NEEDS OF OTHER AREAS. Mr. Madden said that on the previous evening Mr. R. M. Clery (unable to be present because of illness) had got in touch with him and had asked him to bring to the Council's notice the desperate position of Bruree, which had been without water the previous day. The pump in the town was out of order and the inhabitants were in a bad way. "It is a matter of extreme urgency," he said.

The Co. Engineer promised to have the pump repaired on Monday morning. Mr. Dore said that Ardagh, also, badly needed a water supply. Three years ago this question had been originally mooted and it was still in the air.

MR. MCCAULIFFE agreed, saying that the Ardagh people were very badly off for water. Mr. McCarthy also appealed for progress in the proposal to supply Mountcollins with water.

TRANSITION FUND GRANT. A letter from the Department of Local Government told the Council that a Transition Fund Grant not exceeding £1,000 was being made available for the installation of the planned water supply for Cappamore.

Replying to Mr. Hayes, the Co. Secretary said it was probable that the Council would also get a grant from the E.S.V. towards the Cappamore project.

MR. HAYES expressed satisfaction at this information and hoped that the scheme would be got under way without delay.

CASTLECONNELL SCHEME. In reply to Mr. Mackey, the Co. Secretary said he had been told by the Department that no grant would be made available for the proposed water supply scheme at Castleconnell. The Department was interesting itself in the matter, however, and had asked for a report from the Co. M.O.H. on the town's claim for a scheme. He would bring this report before the next meeting of the Council.

The Secretary added that the fact of the Department's failure to give the Castleconnell scheme a Transition Fund Grant didn't necessarily mean that no State money would be available to aid the Council in providing the town with water. They were hoping to get an E.S.V. grant. The question was adjourned to the next meeting for the report of the Co. M.O.H.

Numerous messages of sympathy were sent from all over, which testified to the esteem and respect in which the late Mrs. O'Dwyer was held. CURED AT BLESSED

Miraculous Event Recalled THE STORY OF DEAN O'BRIEN

THE blessed well at Cooliskey, Castlemahon, Newcastle West, was widely known in the past for cures effected there during the paying of "rounds," especially in cases of eye diseases. When he was a child, the famous Dean O'Brien, Founder of the Catholic Young Men's Society, suffered from blindness. His mother took him to the well and on the completion of the third "round" the child's sight was miraculously restored. This interesting story is told in the subjoined article, specially written for the "Limerick Leader" by Mr. M. J. Egan, Dublin, one of the most active and useful workers in and for the C.Y.M.S. Mr. Egan has written a full scale Life of Dean O'Brien and this work, a book of 160 pages octavo, will be published by Messrs. M. H. Gill & Son, Dublin, by the end of June. The following is the special article written for us by this brilliant literary figure:—

It was only when Dean O'Brien's first novel, "Eily Moore," appeared in 1856, that it became known that the Dean was blind when a child and that he was cured at a Holy Well. He did not say where the Holy Well was situated—apparently he did not wish it to be known for he gave it a fictitious name, "St. Senanus." The information is conveyed in a dialogue between Gerald Moore, one of the principal characters of the tale, and another young man who had no belief in such extraordinary cures. This is the relevant passage:—

EXTRACT FROM LETTER

"I have interviewed a number of old people here, some of whom have known the Dean very well. Regarding his being blind when a boy, I could only discover one man who was able to give me information on that point. His name is Mr. William Harnett, Chesterfield, Newcastle West, who, when a boy, used to serve Mass for the Dean. When I mentioned the matter to him, he told me that he had often heard from his father that when Dean O'Brien was a boy his sight was very weak, so much so that his mother took him to the Baptist's Well, where she made some 'rounds.' She carried the child, Richard, on her back doing the 'rounds,' and after completing the third 'round' at the Well the child's sight was immediately restored. Up to this time the boy's name was Richard and the mother in thanksgiving for the restoration of her child's eye-sight called him from then onwards Richard Baptist. At this time Mrs. O'Brien was residing in Limerick City, about twenty-five miles distant from the Holy Well."

SUPPORTING EVIDENCE

In view of this testimony there can be no doubt that it was at the Holy Well of St. John the Baptist, Cooliskey, that Richard O'Brien—the future Dean of Limerick—was cured. Mr. Harnett—who has since died—was possibly the only man then living who could give this vital information. We are enabled to give supporting evidence. Through the courtesy of Very Rev. Canon Dunphy, P.P., Carrick-on-Suir, we have obtained the Dean's Baptismal Certificate, which shows that he had only one Christian name, Richard. The second name, Baptist, must, therefore, have been added at a later period. This, it will be seen, confirms Mr. Harnett's testimony. Even the Dean himself has supplied us with evidence little thinking that it ever would be used to identify the sacred spot. In "Eily Moore," he gives a description of the Well as follows:—"A turn in the road concealed a Well from which a stream of water was issuing. It was shaded by an old elder tree that looked like the protecting genius of the spot. It was some small distance from the road."

AN ACCURATE DESCRIPTION

This is an accurate description of the Well. It is a short distance from the road—only twelve yards—and a stream of water, which has never known to go dry, flows from the sacred spring. At the brink of the Well the old tree still stands like its "protecting genius." The Dean says "the Well was his Siloah." What does he mean by this statement? Let us consider it for a moment. There were sacred springs in the Holy Land in pre-Christian times—one of these was Siloah. This spring bore one of the many names foreshadowing the Messiah. "The One Sent, the Siloah, and hence it
