

Cup

(By Our Special Coursing Correspondent)

DESPITE really unpleasant conditions at Newcastle West to-day, there was another big crowd to witness the final stages of the Munster Cup. Blarney Major, the overnight favourite, made many friends by the manner in which he disposed of his litter sister, Amina. There was a great course between the two for threequarters way up, but Blarney Major's splendid pace took him to the front to lead at the end by three-quarter of a length.

Among a few surprises was the defeat of Spanish Lad by Bold Lieutenant. There was, however, no doubt of the result of this course after the Lieutenant came from behind to lead by two lengths from the gallant Derby winner, which also this season took the Kerries and Kingdom Cups.

DEATH OF NUN

The death took place recently at the Presentation Convent, Hospital, of Sister Mary Alphonsus at an advanced age (writes our Hospital correspondent). Her passing is deeply regretted, particularly by the community of nuns in Hospital, amongst whom her loss would be felt especially, apart from the general regret of the Presentation Order generally, with whom the deepest sympathy is felt.

MUNGRET-CRECORA COURSING CLUB

The annual coursing meeting of above will be held at Rutagh on Thursday, January 19th. For this the Committee have 65 hares already in the enclosure, and no less than 200 beaters turned out on Sunday last for the hare drive, which brought in over 25 hares. Entries are coming in rapidly, so it looks as if a first-class day's coursing is in store for patrons. Particulars in advertisement in another page.

NEW YEAR'S EVE AT KILLALOE

At Killaloe on New Year's Eve (writes our correspondent there) the Guissane and the Blake families and connections once again upheld the time-honoured tradition of playing the old year out and the new year in. Shortly after the conclusion of midnight Mass their bands paraded through the streets of Killaloe playing National airs, old-time favourites and up-to-date melodies. There was a big following and much admiration for the spirit which inspired the proceedings.

BOTH AT THE LAW

In Victoria, Australia, a husband and wife have been called to the Bar at the same time. They are Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Rickards, and the latter's name is one line above her husband's. Seniority in the barristers' profession in that country depends on the order of names on the roll.
