The Judge said this was one of the cases of which most Judges took a serious view. The best he could do was to substitute a heavy fine for the imprisonment.

The Judge confirmed the suspension of the driving licence, and ordered Broderick to pay 19 odd expenses.

DEATH OF RETIRED TEACHER

MRS. B. CAHILL, KILDIMO

Deep and widespread regret was occasioned by the death of Mrs. B. Cahill, Kildimo, who passed away at her residence on the 5th inst. after a short illness. The deceased, who had been a very successful teacher, was principal of Kildimo National School for 45 years, retiring on pension with the good wishes and appreciation of all with whom her professional duties brought her into contact. She was relict of Mr. John Cahill, for many years a prominent and useful member of Rathkeale Board of Guardians and District Council, who passed away in 1941, and mother of Mr. Patrick Cahill, the present Manager of Bunratty Co-operative Creamery. The late Mrs. Cahill, who had passed the eighty mark, was a lady of many fine parts, and enjoyed the confidence and respect of a very wide circle of friends and acquaintances. To the bereaved family and relatives we extend our very sincere sympathy.

HOUSING SCHEMES TENDERS ACCEPTED

Subject to sanction (writes our Ennis correspondent), the tender of Mr. P. C. McMahon, Ennis, has been accepted by County Manager Dr. Blackwell for the erection of 24 houses, including development work at Skinnlebridge, for the sum of £31,805, with rock excavation at 37/6 per cubic yard, and concrete roads. Fourteen of the proposed houses are to be one-storey, with an average area of 682 square feet, and twelve two-storey of 800 square feet. In each case the accommodation will include kitchen, three bedrooms, bath, w.c. and scullery.

For the old type of rural cottages tenders have been accepted from Mr. Joseph Ward, Killelran, Feakle, Co. Clare, at £649 per cottage, and from Mr. Thomas Linnane, Main St., Killeenora, at £657 per house. The pre-war cost of these houses, which are one-storey, with a kitchen and three bedrooms, averaged about £250 each.

...prescribed for forms of mental illness are extremely dangerous and cannot be given out ad lib to patients in the same way as would ordinary prescriptions, because there might be a danger of their being incorrectly used. Therefore, the administration of the prescriptions will always have to be under the supervision of the doctors.

Mr. J. W. Canty, Co. C. I suppose it would not be advisable to have a clinic in the centre of a street anywhere.

Dr. O'Higgins—It would be much better to have it in the open air than to have it in a hole or corner. If people think there is something to be afraid or ashamed of in the clinics, they will not be a success.

MUST REMOVE STIGMA.

One of the aims of the clinics is to remove the stigma from mental illnesses. If we are to continue hiding away the location of treatment in holes and corners, we will never get away from that mentality and our progress in combating mental illness will be very slow.

Questioned by Ald. M. Hartney, the R.M.S. said that free treatment would be provided under Public Assistance.

After some further discussion, it was decided to leave the final arrangements for the opening of the clinics in the hands of Dr. O'Higgins.

LATE MICHAEL O HOGAIN

The late Michael O Hogain, of St. Anne's Corbally, whose recent death was so widely lamented, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Hogan, N.T.; his sister, Sister Maureen Hogan, of Leitchworth, Herts, England, and Willie Hogan, of Shanpallas, Kildimo. He was a well-known figure in the early days of Gaelic revival; a member of the Redmond Volunteers, and later one of the I.R.B.

The funeral to Mount St. Lawrence Cemetery, after Requiem Mass in St. Patrick's Church, was largely attended. Besides the general public it included his wife, brother, niece and numerous cousins.

A decade of the Rosary was recited in Irish at the graveside by Miss Una McColum, N.T., who attended the funeral together with three first cousins from Killorglin, Co. Kerry.

Seven priests officiated at the graveside and numerous Mass cards, wires and letters of sympathy were received.

An dhaís De go raibh a anam.

Mr. J. M. Kinnerk, solicitor, who is now attached to the firm of Messrs. F. M. Fitt and Co., solrs., Limerick, was welcomed to the Limerick Liberties Court on Wednesday by Justice D. F. Gleeson.

Mr. Kinnerk suitably returned thanks to the Justice,

Mr. Harry Cripps, A.O.A. Operations Agent, and Miss Eyn Hogan, T.W.A. Teletype Operator, who were married in St. Joseph's Church, Limerick, photographed at Shannon Airport, embarking on an A.O.A. Strato-cruiser for a three weeks honeymoon in the United States.

The bridegroom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Cripps, of Cross, Douglas Road, Cork, and the bride is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hogan, Ballina, Kilmoe, Co. Clare.

MOTHERCRAFT

A LITTLE BOOK THAT IS PHILOSOPHER AND FRIEND

Mothercraft is a never-ending vigil. Just as necessary through school years as in babyhood. And now when every child must be on tip-toe with alertness—mother needs a handy guide to health and well-being on which she can absolutely rely.

That is why Steedman's famous little red book, "Hints to Mothers," is in greater demand than ever. So neat and concise, it deals adequately with the treatment of all childish ailments.

For these same Steedman's Powders, that are invaluable through teething time and babyhood, are just as beneficial during school years. They ensure that gentle regularity and purity of blood stream which maintain health and zest.

So give Steedman's Powder from teething to teens. Still only two-pence per powder and stamped with the double EE on every wrapper. And, meanwhile, send a P.C. for your copy of "Hints to Mothers," free and post free from John Steedman & Co., 270, Watworth Rd., London, S.E.17.

CHARLEVILLE HOUSING SCHEME

On Thursday, the 19th January, the keys of the new town houses recently completed in Charleville will be handed over to the appointed tenants and at 2.30 p.m. the Minister for Local Government, Mr. Michael Keyes, will perform the opening ceremony. The Minister will be the guest of honour at a luncheon which will follow.
