DIED IN ENGLAND

OLD LANSDOWNE MAN

PASSES

The death occurred yesterday in Hallam Hospital, West Bromwich, near Birmingham, of Patrick Joseph Doherty, husband of Christina Doherty, 26 Little Gerald Griffin Street, Limerick. Popularly known as "Pa Joe," he was a member of the Old Lansdowne Rugby Club, and won many games as scrum half with that team. He had been in England for about five years, prior to which he was employed by Messrs. Richard Ray and Co., Roche's Street.

As is the usual custom with the surviving members of the Lansdowne Football Club, a Mass will be offered for the repose of his soul. "Lansdowne men never forget."

The interment will take place at West Bromwich Cemetery.

THE GLORY OF THE WINTER SKY

Now is the time to study the beauty of the evening sky before the moon increases in size and by its light dims the brightness of the stars. Orion (the Hunter) is probably the most striking and interesting constellation, easily recognised by the three bright stars which form what is known as his belt with his sword hanging from it formed by three smaller stars. To follow the downward direction of the belt will lead to the single star known as Sirius, or the Dog Star, which is the most brilliant star in our sky. The most extensive con-ses if proper notice were given.

Judge Barra O Briain—Would you admit the plaintiff on 24 hour notice?

Mr. Binchy—We certainly would.
Judge—What, then, is left in the case?

Mr. Kenny—Nothing.
After some further legal argument, the Judge dismissed the case with costs.

TRIBUTE TO CITY 'BUS CONDUCTORS

(To the Editor, "Limerick Leader.")

Dear Sir—A letter from Conductor D. J. Macauley in your January 14th issue gives impetus to an intention I have had for months—that is, to sing the praises of the C.I.E. personnel in Limerick.

Since coming to live here it has been obvious to me that for patience and forbearance with the public there are no city conductors to compare with those in Limerick. They are cheerful and courteous. As a mater familias I have been gratified by their understanding of children, and by their warnings to children indulging in dangerous pranks.

Generally we burst into ink when we want to air a grievance. It is only fair to make the effort occasionally to give credit where it is due.

Yours truly,

"ANOTHER PASSENGER."

FEAST OF ST. ITA CELEBRATED AT KILLEEDY

The Feast of St. Ita, January 15th, was celebrated with due solemnity, at Killeedy, on Sunday last (writes our Killeedy correspondent). The celebrations were in keeping with the oldest traditions. Forty years ago the devout parishioners of Killeedy erected a beauti-
