C.I.E 'BUS CONDUCTORS

(To the Editor, "Limerick Leader.")

Dear Sir—I would also like to say a few words for the C.I.E. conductors. We have been travelling in buses for years, and never once had we any trouble with those men. In hail, rain, and when pelted with snow-mud at the stops, they carry on without a cross word. As for the drivers of the Thomondgate to Janesboro' 'bus, they should all get a life-saving medal and the thanks of the passengers for bringing them safely over roads of large stones, deep trenches, dogs, carts and small children. They are fine chaps—every one of them.

Yours sincerely,

"TREATY STONE."
