PROMINENT FIGURE RATHKEALE MAN'S PENSION REFUSED

DEATH OF MR. P. COMER, KILLALOE

A prominent figure and life-long worker in the Gaelic League movement passed away on Friday, 9th inst., in the person of Mr. Patrick Comer, Main Street, Killaloe. The deceased, who was born at Dunmore, Co. Galway, was a native speaker of fine culture and came to East Clare about thirty years ago as a teacher and organiser of the Irish language. He was a tireless, splendid and sincere worker in the Irish-Ireland cause and in that and other ways was strongly and unselfishly patriotic to a high degree. In private life he was a genial, sociable and kindly man and enjoyed, as he deserved, the widest measure of popularity. The possessor of many fine qualities and characteristics, he was held in the warmest esteem and respect by all who knew him. His death removes not only a good husband and father but a staunch and thorough-going advocate of and worker in the national up-building of his country. The remains were removed to St. Flannan's Church, Killaloe, on Saturday last and the funeral took place to Garranboy Cemetery on Sunday, the attendance on both occasions being of huge dimensions and thoroughly representative in character. To the bereaved wife and family we extend our very sincere sympathy on their poignant sorrow.

DEATH GAELS' TRIBUTE OF RESPECT

It is with deep regret (writes Mr. Michael Madigan, Rathkeale) that I record the death of our very dear and very much respected townsman, Mr. James Cregan. The end of his most exemplary life came in the most unexpected circumstances. On Sunday week he attended a hurling match in which his nephew, Master Bernie Sheahan, our now coming county star, was engaged. At this time he was in his usual health and spirits. On the following day he supervised all his various land holdings and had his evening tea at 6.30, after which he passed away immediately. By his death our town is bereft of one of the very oldest stock. For generations past the Cregan family lived on the site of the present Munster and Leinster Bank, which was built as far back as 70 years ago. His business calling in life was that of cattle dealer and victualler. In both lines he was always looked up to as a man of strict honesty and uprightness.

The members of the local G.A.A. Club, headed by their Chairman, Mr. John Fitzgerald, shouldered the remains to their last resting place at the old burial ground in Church Street. "Bill" Sheahan, Paddy Flaherty and Mick Madigan represented the veteran G.A.A. section. The funeral was large and representative.

Chief mourners were:—Mrs. E. Sheahan (sister) and Mr. Bernie Sheahan (nephew).

Clergy present were:—Very Rev. Canon Carroll, P.P., V.F.; Rev. J. Costelloe, C.C., and Rev. J. Neville, C.S.Sp.

APPOINTMENT OF SHEEHY

His many friends in Co. were gratified at the appointment of Circuit Court Judge Sheehy as Pension Board Referee.

A nephew of the Land priest, the late Father Sheehy, a worthy judge is brother of M. Kettle and uncle of Sheehy Skeffington, T.C. Mr. Cruise O'Brien, Department of External Affairs. His sister Mrs. Sheehy-Skeffington, died a few years ago.

Judge Sheehy has a wide circle of relatives in West Limerick. He spent many of his youthful years at the residence of his uncle, Daniel McCoy, of Ballyhale.

MEMORIES

Thy form is slender,
 Thy temper serene,
 Most modest of maids
 That ever have been
 Thy soul's like a lily,
 Thy voice sweet and
 Thy gait's light and airy
 Thy heart is sincere
 Thy fingers are nimble
 Sweet music to play
 Thy pure eyes are beaming
 Thy spirit is gay.
 'Tis joy to be living
 Wherever thou art,
 And grief to be thinking
 That soon we must part
 But what of the parting
 Whatever the love;
 Let's hope for that meeting
 With angels above,
 Where joy everlasting
 Shall be our reward,
 If we are resigned
 To the Will of the Lord
