THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE (ESTABLISHED 1766) THURSDAY, MARCH 3, 1921

THE IRISH CATTLE TRADE

Despite the restrictions placed now and then on the Irish cattle export trade, England remains the great market for the Irish stock raiser, and this fact it is which gives special importance to the question of importing foreign cattle, and the agitation in favour of removing the embargo on the shipment of Canadian stock to British ports. The supporters favouring the removal of that embargo have been agitating for a long number of years to have a free hand in exporting and selling their stock in Great Britain but without success so far. Nothing stayed in their assistance, they are just now pressing with all the influence they can muster to induce the Government to give way and consent to the withdrawal of the embargo, the attack on which has, it looks, been joined in by a number of English interests. The Canadian Minister of Agriculture is crossing the sea, it is announced, to add his influence to the agitation for removing the restrictions on the exportations from Canada, and a stiff fight is anticipated on a matter which is of no small importance to the Irish cattle trade. Undoubtedly, as has been shown again and again in years gone by, and when there was an Irish Parliamentary Party in the House of Commons, the removal of the embargo would be far from wise and not workable, that if Canada were to obtain the concession sought it would be extremely difficult, if at all possible, to exclude that country from the embargo, and to apply it to other countries abroad and their stock producer. The Meat Traders' Association across the water are adding their influence to the agitation against the embargo, and they make a strong bid for the support of the proletariat in the statement that its removal would bring down the price of meat for consumers, expense per lb in the cost of beef. This is a statement which would not work out to any such advantage, while adversely affecting the Irish farmers' widely engaged as they are, in the stock raising industry. As contended, the importation of Canadian stock would help English purchasers to get cheaper stores than they can have from Ireland. Limiting the production of cattle in Ireland by any such change as outside interests may be induced to fancy a benefit to their trade would inevitably lead to a reaction that must dissipate in effect the theories which have been floated in countenance of the embargo removal. The change would mean a shrinkage in Irish cattle raising, the diminution in the long run of butter exports to England, and the risk of introduction of foot-and-mouth disease among the home herds that might eventuate in little short of a national disaster. There are thus weighty and grave reasons for Ministerial opposition to any such change, a change affecting in degree the general community and involving issues of great moment to one of Ireland's best and most material interests in many ways, interests, too, in which Great Britain is deeply concerned. It is, accordingly, to be hoped that the Ministry and the Legislature will continue in their resolve not to consent to the removal of the Canadian cattle embargo.

DEATH OF MR M.H. SHERRY, SHANNONGROVE

A wide circle of friends in the County of Limerick and elsewhere have learned with deep regret of the death of Mr. Michael H. Sherry, son of the late Mr John Sherry, Coroner for County Limerick, Shannongrove, Pallaskey, which occurred on Tuesday from pneumonia after only two days' illness. He was well known in country circles, was a member of County Limerick Coursing Club, and took a deep interest in Irish Dog sports. THE CORK TUNNEL TRAGEDY

There are some further details in connection with the death of Charles Daly, who was employed as parcel porter at the Glanville, Cork, Terminal of the Great Southern and Western Railway. It appears about 12 midnight on Monday he was on duty on the premises when three men arrived on the platform. Two of them were masked and shot Daly. They first saw the head night porter whom they started to have questioned. They then proceeded to the other side of the platform, where Mr Daly was working with a lamp in his hand. The man approached him, caught hold of him, and dragged him along to the tunnel, over the top of which at least two shots were fired at him, one grazing his right hand and the other entering the lungs just below the region of the heart and lodging in the back. Death must have occurred in a very short space of time after the wounds were inflicted.

On Monday, 22th February, Messrs J. P. and M. G. Hartigan, auctioneers, had a most successful sale at Clonare House, for Miss Hartigan. A good "ring" of buyers were present, and some choice lots were sold. Miss Hartigan's own average 136 lbs. Mr John O'Neill, Orange, purchased highest priced cow of this sale, a great cow, at £40 10s; Mr J. Dublin, Bruff, next best, at £45. Miss Gleason, Grebbidge, sold a choice lot of in-calf heifers at an average of £23 each. Mr T. A. Hartigan, Croom House, put up a very superior lot of heifers, which were greatly admired and found many purchasers, top prices again being paid by Mr John Bennett, who secured a cow at £24. Mr Bennett bought two grand types for £44 and £41; Mr William Casey, a very choice cow at £44, and Mr Hartigan's lot averaged £40.

AMERICAN RELIEF FOR IRELAND

The members of the delegation sent by the American Committee for Relief in Ireland to the United States, in this country, have a telegram to Senator Harding, President-elect of the United States, expressing good wishes for an administration of world-wide humanitarianism, and requesting him to make public his belief that America should assist to rehabilitate the "industrial" world with a view to promoting the highest ideals of mankind. The delegates estimate the famine in Cork to amount to ten million dollars, and in the rest of Ireland to twenty millions. Upwards of thirty thousand persons were found to be in distress, and they appeal to the American public to respond particularly as it did to appeals from General Europe. They believe that Mr Harding's support of the effort will go far towards strengthening world peace.

New Order Permitting Export. The Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries on Tuesday night issued an Order to come into operation on Wednesday, relieving the restrictions recently imposed in consequence of an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Ireland. It provides, among other things, that cattle, sheep and goats, if intended for immediate slaughter, may be moved out of the landing places after the prescribed period of detention on a licence of an Inspector of the Ministry. Fat pigs may be moved out of the landing places direct to a slaughter house.

RISING VALUE OF THE £1

By April next the Treasury £1 note will purchase 3s 6d worth of foreign goods—5s more than at the present time. This is the expectation of Mr Felix Blakemore, President of the National Chamber of Trade, speaking at the annual dinner of the Blackpool Chamber of Trade. A substantial reduction in the cost of living, which is the result of the control of the American hog products, would reduce the cost of production of manufactured goods, making industries busy, and abolishing unemployment.

THE HIGH NEWSPAPER COSTS

Leicester's only morning newspaper, the "Daily Post," is to cease publication at the end of March. It was established in 1872, but has never been a paying concern, and the present cost of paper and other materials, together with the enhanced labour and other charges and the cost of Press services, makes it impossible to continue. All newspapers have of late had a very trying time, owing to the higher costs of production, remarks the "Independent."
