THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE
(ESTABLISHED 1786)
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 16, 1921

IRISH WEEK.
For many years past Irish Week has been a conspicuous feature in connection with the celebration of the National Festival. It was brought into being by the industrial revival movement, and the object of the "Week" was to give a fillip to Irish manufactures, and to the extension of our industrial activities.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.
To facilitate the closing of accounts, subscribers of the "Chronicle," who have not already done so, are requested to remit forthwith subscriptions for the past year.

SACRED CONCERT AT CENTRAL HALL

A sacred concert was held in the Central Hall, Bedford Row, last evening, in aid of the superannuated Ministers' Fund, and was every standpoint an unqualified success. The special feature of the concert was the rendering of Stainer's beautiful composition, "The Crucifixion," a soul-stirring and inspiring work which has made the artist's reputation.

SEIZURE OF AMMUNITION IN LIMERICK.

The authorities in Limerick last night arrested two men, Patrick O'Neill and John Butler, in connection with a charge of being in unlawful possession of a quantity of ammunition, a quantity of eight rounds of ammunition, a quantity of eight rounds of cartridges, and a quantity of eight rounds of cartridges.

RESULT OF CUTTING ROADS.

A military Order, prohibiting fairs and markets in Limerick and other places has been issued, owing to the destruction of roads and bridges. The roads throughout the whole district are fast and barred with felled trees.

KNOCKLONG TRAGEDY.

Three Civilians Tried.

At the City Hall, Dublin, to-day, before a Field General Court-martial, three young men named Patrick Maher, Edmund Foley, and Michael Murphy, all residing in the Knocklong district of Co. Limerick, were charged with having, at Knocklong, on May 14th, 1919, with intent to murder, shot and killed the late Major-General Sir Patrick Waller, of the Royal Irish Constabulary. There was an alternative charge of manslaughter.

MR LLOYD GEORGE AND IRISH TRUCE.

Mr Lloyd George, answering a question asking him to call an Irish truce, said in the House of Commons to-day that the Government would be willing to meet any person authorized to speak on behalf of the majority of the people of Ireland to discuss this matter.

CROSS-CHANNEL MAILS DELAY.

Case of Limerick and Cork.

In the House of Commons, Lieut-Colonel Walker, Guinness asked the Postmaster-General whether he was aware that mails, though leaving London at the same time as in 1914, are later in reaching places in Ireland by periods ranging from one hour in the case of Cork, to one hour and twenty minutes in the case of Limerick, and that the same delay is experienced in the night mail to England now, than was the case at least three-quarters of an hour earlier, thus making it impossible to reply by return of post to English letters on the day they are received, and whether he can explain this decrease of efficiency and say when the Post Office will again be able to meet the public arrangements as convenient as those enjoyed before the war.

TROOPS FOR THE RHINE.

In the House of Commons, Sir A. Williamson stated, in reply to Commander Keenworthy, that no extra troops had been sent to the Army of Occupation in Germany, but it was impossible to forecast whether more troops would be required.

LATE CANON O'GRADY.

The remains of Rev Canon O'Grady, Rector, Bantry, were interred on Monday in the New Cemetery at the Abbey, Bantry. The funeral cortege was large and impressive.

THE POPE AND PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

His Holiness the Pope has lately sent a contribution of £40 through Cardinal Gasparri to the Roman Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Cardinal Gasparri, writing with reference to an appeal to the clergy in charge of souls enjoining upon them the education of the young in kindness to all God's creatures, especially the birds of the air and their nests, makes the following statement: "The Holy Pontiff finds worthy of praise these objects and the certainty that it will with faithful and efficacious collaboration by the priests of God, educate minds in sentiments of enlightened kindness."

CONSTABLE WOUNDED IN CLARE.

A Dublin Castle official report says:—An R.I.C. constable when cycling along Ennis road, near Ennis, Co. Clare, on Sunday evening, was attacked by an armed man on a bicycle. There was a struggle and shots were fired, by one of which the constable was badly wounded by a revolver bullet. He was fired upon by a assailant, and it is believed, wounded him about the head. The assailant escaped.

IRISH PEACE MOVE.

In Business Interests "A number of influential persons interested in the practical and administrative aspects of the Irish question and convinced of the urgent importance to the business interests of the United Kingdom and the Empire of arriving at a settlement of the present difficulties, are, as "The Times," is making steps to work out an arrangement which will give Ireland her full weight in the economic councils of the Empire."

PREMIER TO MEET BUSINESS MEN.

"The Daily Mail" is informed that the Prime Minister has assented to a request made by leaders of industry to discuss with them the whole question of industrial and national taxation. It is expected that 170 business organizations will be represented at the conference.

ST PATRICK'S DAY PEACE.

The English Archbishops' Appeal The Archbishop of Canterbury and York have issued the following:—"We thankfully see that all sections of Christians in Ireland are resolved that on Thursday next, St. Patrick's Day, they will unite in prayer, that by the blessing of God, some way may be found of restoring peace to this distracted land. For us in England to be silent or silent at such a time would contradict the desire of every Christian among us. Never were thoughts about Ireland and her needs more vividly, more tragically, awake than they are this week. Let us, therefore, in our prayers, be united privately, upon our knees in humble prayer that the good head of the Lord God, the feet of those who are now in darkness and in the shadow of death may be guided into the way of peace."

SALMON FISHERIES.

Under an Order by the Food Controller, the use of any net, except a landing net, for the capture of salmon or trout in the freshwater portion of any river or stream is prohibited between the hours of 9.15 a.m. and 1.15 a.m. instead of between 8 p.m. and 8 a.m. as in the case of salmon on the summer time. The net will remain in force during that period only.

A VESSEL IN DISTRESS.

Heroism of Quilty Fishermen.

Our Kilmuckish correspondent writes:—The "Alma Hein," a German three masted schooner left Hamburg some time ago, bound for Galway with a cargo of salt, and was driven in at Quilty on Thursday, 2nd March, about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Distress signals were sent up all night from the ship, as the ship was in a perilous plight, and nothing could be done until three fishermen—Thomas Boyle, Austin Boyle, and Pat Keating—ventured to go out in the raging sea in a frail cutter, 8 o'clock in the morning. They made several attempts to reach the vessel, the weather being so rough, and only one of them, Thomas Boyle, was with great risk hauled on board, without boots, and only trousers and jersey on, by means of a rope which was thrown from the ship. The other two men had to return to the shore, as the cutter was in great danger of capsizing or being dashed to pieces against the ship. When Boyle got on board he found one of the crew of seven were unwell after their trying experience, and the vessel was drifting on to the rocks, as the last one anchor during the night which weighed 6 cwt and 90 fathoms of chain. Boyle advised the captain to put his vessel to sea, but the captain thought she would not stand the weather, and did not know the dangerous coast as well as Boyle, so the captain decided to put to sea in a small boat, and the vessel was towed to the shore. They arrived at Limerick about half past six o'clock on Friday evening, and the vessel was brought to anchor in Galway Bay. The captain on arrival at Galway thanked Boyle for piloting the vessel and for extruding him from the rocks at Seafield Point, to Limerick. The three men, with other distinguished themselves at the time of the wreck of "Leon XIII," in October, 1907. Boyle served in the Navy during the war, and was torpedoed four times. The Coastguards were on the scene at the time the ship was in distress but could render no assistance. A tug was hired for and came in search of the vessel, which had by that time arrived safely at her destination. These three fishermen deserve the greatest credit in saving the crew and ship, and it is hoped that their gallant and heroic action will be brought into the notice of the Government. Lloyd's agents at Kilmuckish were in constant communication with Quilty, and in their power for the safety of the ship and crew.

COUNCIL OF AGRICULTURE.

Important Matters Discussed.

The annual meeting of the Council of Agriculture was held in Dublin yesterday. The President (Mr. Barris, M.P.) in his address, covered a wide field. In regard to the proposed Bill, the Government had asked the Department to agree the work as between the North and South. He said the County Committees had no opinion to offer on the Bill, and the Department, so far as they could render to the Council, would give attention to the recommendations of the Council. The Bill which had made a report on the subject, he said, regarded the Bill, the demand had declined, but farmers should continue to sow for seed, because the spinning industry was interested, and the Department would be willing at any time to call a conference of the interests involved. He also dealt with technical education, dairying, and other matters. The question of the importation of Canadian stores was discussed, and a resolution was passed stating the removal of the embargo "would be most calamitous injury to the cattle-raising industry in this country." The Council also passed, and an amendment that the Council should press all points on the Government against the removal of the embargo. In a letter from the Bishop of Ross, he stated the whole system of Irish life is going to pieces and the only condition of survival for the better is peace. The unity of Ireland, in all its phases, is essential to Ireland, and Ulster holds the key to the situation. Peace is essential, and unity is essential to peace. In the Irish Convention a settlement was reached if Belfast had agreed.

KILKEE TOWN COMMISSIONERS.

Mr George Collins, J.P., chairman, presided at the meeting of the Kilkee Town Commissioners, which was held in the Town Hall, on Monday evening. Mr Collins, J.P., in his address, stated that the Commissioners had to consider the question of the removal of the embargo on Canadian stores, and the question of the removal of the embargo on Canadian stores.

COAL DECONTROL.

In the House of Commons yesterday, the Standing Committee further considered the Coal Mines Decontrol Bill. The discussion was resumed by Mr. Adamson, who complained that miners were being attacked in this bill, while a number of other industries were still in receipt of Government subsidies. He stated that the miners' strike had caused loss of trade, as had been asserted, and contended that the shameless "profiteering" that had gone on was mostly responsible. It is believed that the Government got its way, but it is believed that the miners' strike had caused loss of trade, as had been asserted, and contended that the shameless "profiteering" that had gone on was mostly responsible.

The attack took place near Blaise Bridge, Dublin. The attackers appeared to have numbered two. They waited round the corner, and when the leading motor cyclist appeared ordered him to stop. He did not do so, and the men fired. Though wounded, he rode on to the next junction and disappeared, going at great speed.
