THE HOLIDAY SEASON

The August Bank Holiday was the last of the summer season. It is usually regarded as the most popular one of the year, and especially, perhaps, in the times through which we are passing.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Weather. The break in the weather still continues and has occasioned mixed feelings. The rainfall has done much good, but it continues for any length of time may do much harm.

THE BANK HOLIDAY

The number of people, including excursionists, who left town for the holidays and for yesterday's bank holiday was fully up to, if it did not exceed, all previous records.

Attitude of Irish Railway Clerks. Mr J. J. O'Connell (Irish Secretary of the Railway Clerks' Association) crossed again to London last night to take part in the negotiations between the Irish Railway Clerks' Association and the Railway Trade Unions in connection with the Labour Party's Bill.

CHEAPER POSTCARD RATE COMING

There is a strong likelihood (says "A Londoner's Diary" in the "Evening Standard") that the postcard rates may shortly be revised, for the Postmaster-General has been impressed by the effect of the higher charges upon the postcard trade, as well as by the drop in receipts.

AIRMAN'S AMAZING EXPLOIT.

Lands on Highest Point in Europe. "My dream of conquering Mont Blanc was realized." But not for a million francs would I attempt such a flight again."

HIGH RAILWAY FARES

Discourage Tourist Traffic. One reason assigned for the falling off in the number of tourists recently visiting Ireland is the hindrance to freedom of movement, caused by the state of affairs politically.
