THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE (ESTABLISHED 1766) THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1921

A POTATO CONFERENCE. This is an age of Conferences. Every section of the community has its assembly, usually an annual one, to discuss its own particular interests and promote its welfare.

There are Conferences of trade and industry, the employer and the working man, scientific research, the professions and social reformers to mention but a few of the many that will occur to the "man in the street," who is a keen observer of the topics of the day.

One would have hardly looked to such an event as a Conference on the potato. And yet there is every reason why there should be deliberations with reference to this a common and indispensable article of human food.

Conferences have long since been resumed with renewed vigour and interest, and this year has seen many of them. One would have hardly looked to such an event as a Conference on the potato.

And yet there is every reason why there should be deliberations with reference to this a common and indispensable article of human food. The potato has risen to the dignity of having a Conference of its own, and an International one at that.

Many experts are just now meeting in London to discuss the disease to which the potato is subject, the question of intensive production, the exchange of seedlings, and other points concerning the tuber. That the agenda is a lengthy one, or that the discussions will be prolonged, is evidenced by the fact that the proceedings are to last during the week.

The Conference is a most representative one, seeing that in addition to the British Isles, France, Belgium, Denmark, Greece, Holland, Portugal, Spain, Switzerland, India, Australia, and Norway have all sent delegates. Ireland will be served by the Department of Agriculture, and to this country the proceedings of the Conference will be of more than passing interest.
