sarly subama. Moreover, the recent Beard of Trade returns showed a drop in she value of imported foodesuff, and whiles this may be accounted for to some extent by lower prices, those who are in a position to judge incline to the opinion that there will be a tevival of prices for most foodstaff , imported as well as bomeproduced. In and country markes prices of English baster have been steadly rising for some weaks pass, and although the Loudon and provincial markets for imported busser have been quiet during this holiday month, prices are very high, and there is no prospect of a decline until nexe spring unless the public demand fails off very considerably. Whiles basser was as Se 4d a pound lass winter, is fell during the coal origin to is Si, but it has recovered lissli now, and will go bigher still in the next faw weeks. Consequently there will be a bigger demand for margarine, ane price of which will probably go up as well particularly on account of the dearnoss o. milk. The position thus indicated will not be relieved anall shipmonus of Colonial butter begin to arrive early in the new year. The posision of cheese is very similar. happlies of the home-produced article are seriously short, and consequently dear. The catpas in Canada is much smaller than usual, and the New Zealand make will not be big enough to make good she deficiency. Eggs and bacon offer a bester prospect. Mupplies of eggs from new sources were established during the war, and these new scarces are still available, with the sonsequence that prices are likely to remain os a more reasonable basis shan we have known them for some years. Baccu ought so be cheaper than it is, and the public have it in shelr power to bring down the prices. When bacon was under control a good deal of stale stoff was sent out, and the public have not yet overcome their distaste of it. They have been content to pay high prices for English, Irish and Danish bacon. All the o.d stocks of consrolled bacon were shipped to Hamburg some weeks ago-the Food Department of the Board of Trade are said to have sold is to the syndicate acting on behalf of the Russian Government-and ample supplies of fresh-cured Canadian, American, and Datch bacon are now available as Sd or 10d a pound below the price of English and Danish. Housewives may safely buy this cheaper bason ; all that need be said is that they must see that the grocer charges the proper price for it and not the Daoish price. The ocer of tea and sugar ought not to vary much, as supplies of both are plentiful, Bread and flour, suc. are likely to remain on their present level aspeet of the little eng industry. Buy gives improvement has been effected of reseat yours.
