In the last 20 years £800,000,000 was spent by Irish men and women on goods made abroad, which could just as well have been made in Ireland. Had it been spent on Irish goods this sum would have added to the country's prosperity and built up many new industries. There would be employment for the many Irish men and women who have been forced to emigrate or are now vainly seeking employment.

Permanent

When permanent peace comes to Ireland as the result of an acceptable settlement of our centuries old dispute with England-and such a blessing will sconer or later be an established fact-all the energies of the mation must be directed to making the most of our natural resources and ad vantages.

This country has been not only sadiy neglested but purposely kept in a state of poverty and undevelopment by those who have been our misruiers and persecutors for the past seven centuries and a half.

The les-way to be made up, therefore, is so great that the dawning of definite freedom can only mean the real beginning of things. From that point onwards, as the ourrant issue of the "Irish Rosary" point; out in its Empire." sditorial notes, everything has to be built up. Kemembering, adds our consemporary, "what has been achieved in a brief sime by progress sive rulers in Denmark and Sweden, it is not rash to say that a visible change for the Relay Rice (confined to Oo's 2nd Batt, Mid. | better in the lives, habits, and opportunities of the people could be made even in the epass

We need not go even outside our own conary for evidence of the power of freedom as an instrument of national recurgence.

Grassan's Parliament was full of imperfecsions, but, because it was native, marvellous improvements and advances and developments sook place in Ireland during the eighteen years of its existence.

We are optimistic enough to believe firmly that under a sympathetic bome Government Ireland would, in a surprisingly short space of sime, become comperatively one of the most prosperous and progressive nations on the face of the earth.

Our resources are manifold and rich; our soil is fertile and our climate good ; while our and under, an Open Race of about Oce | people are really capable of great things when their endeavours ere duly encouraged and properly directed.

With such favouring oirsumstances-and there are many others that we have not been allowed to see or anderstand up to this -it would be only a short time until this island nation would be a busy hive of industrial and commercial activity and the home of a happy, prosperous, and contented population.

The Irish Commission of Inquiry into the Resources of Ireland has in its investigations brought out many new facts and much valuable luformation as so the potentialities of all-round developments in this sountry.

The Report of the Sab Committee on Power, for instance, reveals the fact, hitherto somewhat obscured, that there is a great opportunity for the establishment in Irsland on choroughly aucoccoful lines of the manufacture FILL ENGINEE RELIEF BELLET Send when endeavouring to make his escape was fired on, of industrial alcohol.

Commenting on this report the "Freeman says :- " With her abundance of green growth Leland to in a first rate position to produce large stores of alcohol. The Commisses recommends the opening of a distiller f. to produce industrial ricohol from erichokes, polatoes, and mangels. This would require a capital outlay of $100,000. A constant supply of the raw maserial suggested would be available."

As present Germany produces over forty per sent of the world's supply of industrial alcohol and the Power Sab-Oumalttee, of which Ma Hegh Ryan, DS:, Professor of Chemistry, Is Chairman, has come to the conclusion that Ireland is more fished than Germany for the manufacture of that product, for which there will be an immense demand in the future.

The possibilisies of this industry in Irsland were of course pooh-poohed British Government Commissions, but that is nothing surprising. "Somewhat similar arguments," says the " Trich Independent," were used when an Irish sugar beet industry was proposed, but though experiment had shown that this country was capable producing beet with a high percentage of eagar-bigher even than the average in Ger. many or England-England has now her State-subsidised sugar best industry, while not an onne is bring made here."

Under existing circumstances, of course, very nation-building, but it is clear beyond doubt that the possibilities for our country's advance. ment will be immense once we have national liberty and the people are in the sujoymens of and development of those great Irish resources and opportunities that have been so long and so ernelly neglected.

TO ME DE VALERA

The Conference Prospects British Government's Probable

Attitude

The appoint sorrespondent of the "Dally News," in a message dated Gairloob, Thursday says:-A copy of the draft reply to Mr de Valera has been sans to every member of the Cablost, This means that, not only the Ministers specially appointed at the inverses meeting to deal with Irish affairs but all their colleagues will be responsible for the final draft. The enswer to the Sin Pole Cablast will, therefore, be delayed until early next week. I learn that the draft reply to likely to be the Government's final lester. That is why the Premier is especially anxious that al members of the Cabinet should take part in the deliberations upon it. It is unlikely that a farther Cabinet meeting will take place here, as all the Ministers have bear asked to reply by telegram or letter. Cabinet meeting to be held later London is more probable. In their delibera sions the Ministers will have before them two outstanding points-(1) The capacity in which the Irish representatives will attend the conference. (2) The basis of the ponference. is felt by Ministers that Mc de Valera's letter admits of more than one interpreeation on these points. They consider that neither the capacity in which she Sinn Fein delegates will attend nor the basis of the conference are at all clear. An examination of the corres pondence has led different people to different views, and that Mr De Valera is to be seked to make a plain, unambiguous, definits statement of the basis on which he is willing to confer. The attitude of the Government is that the only possible basis for a conference is the consinuance of Ireland as part of the British

Notwithstanding this, an attempt is now being made to reduce their inedequate wage by a further out of six shillings and nine pence, not on the grounds that the company coninability figancially to maintain even this miserby the men's representatives, at a conference in reply is received next week. IMPORTANT BUSINESS

People are apt to forget that health management is the most important business in which they can be engaged. It requires only a few moments' reflection, however, to realise that, if through neglect or ignorance one's health is injured all one's efficiency and enjoyment of life is impaired. You simply cannot afford to let yourself get run down or to ignore any symptom of impending ill-health. Whenever you have any reason to believe that your stomach is out of order or that you are inclined to be bilious or constipated, you will be wise to take a dose of Beecham's Pills and to continue taking them according to directions until you feel quite all right again.
