DAIRY FARMERS AT MOUNT ST. JOSEPH.

Large Excursion from South Tipperary

The magnificent buildings and surroundings of Mount St. Joseph, Roscrea, had their best on 25th September on the occasion of the visit of the South Tipperary farmers. The large excursion party numbering over one hundred, came by charabanc and motor-cars to the hotel. They were all the more interested in the large estate which they had just visited, and in the beautiful view of the South Tipperary. They are doing their best to improve the milk-bulking capacity of the dairy herd, and the district in addition to their agricultural vocation also serve as a social and educational influence, bringing together farmers and their families to attend discussions and meetings of the district and interest of all engaged in the important industry of the county.

After the success of the visitors tea was met by a cold and a rain of the large estate was taken under the charge of Rev. Father Ailbe and Mr. M. O'Brien, who is in charge of the agricultural department of the college.

The Mount Estate, with its modest and practical farm buildings, were first visited. The farm of modern size, founded by the students of the agricultural school, has been a business success. After studying the crops and live stock, the splendidly equipped corn mill was next reached, and the industry carried on there viewed with interest. A four-well was then taken to the main reservoir, where the first herd of dairy cows was viewed with the keenest interest. The woods, and especially a most successful young plantation of birch, Scotch fir, etc., was inspected. The extensive sawmill was next reached, it is a little piece of industry equipped with the most modern wood-cutting machinery, both saw and a great variety of articles in woodwork are turned out, for which we were glad to have a ready sale.

The farmyard, one of the finest in the country, was viewed with much interest. The buildings are of cut stone, built on the most up-to-date plan, and in the most substantial manner. The cow-house, stable, and pigsty are modelled on a plan of modern utility, with every convenience to economy, labour and promote efficiency. The workshops, grain bins, isolated stalls for sick or calving cattle, and all the other buildings were viewed with interest. The horses, brood sows, and litters, were objects of special study, and the extensive lawlans were afterwards visited.

The large power houses were the next object of interest. Here are placed by 30 h.p. engines, one driven by a water-gas plant, and the other by a turbine with water-power from the large reservoir. These provide power to light and heat the entire buildings, guest houses, and college. The visitors were given a tour of the beautiful new college, and the fine study, recreation hall (with its cinema, chemistry, and physics laboratories).

The purebred bulls were an object of long study. They were shown a beautiful bull, bought at Sir Gilbert Greenall's Kilmallock. His sire is said to be the best dairy-bull in these counties, and the owner refused 10,000 guineas for him recently. A number of very fine bull calves were seen, as well as two splendid aged bulls, one a three-year-old and the other a four-year-old. Halfer calves were also inspected, and certainly in any part of the country, it would be hard to beat them for quality.

Much interest was taken in the work of the agricultural section of the college. For all who are to return to the land it provides a most thorough and practical training. It is under the charge of Mr. M. O'Brien and has proved highly successful.

The extensive tour involved several miles' walk, and crowded as it was with conversation, discussion, and the continual meeting of new objects of interest, had nearly exhausted the physical energy of the visitors, when at four o'clock they were seated to a splendid luncheon, which all heartily enjoyed.

After the luncheon an informal meeting of all present was held. Fourteen cow-testing associations were represented, including Tipperary, Rathfriland, Ballinacorney, Cappawhite, Annacorney, Ardmoyle, Graigoneckler, Cashel, Kilmallock, etc., were represented. Mr. John Ryan, secretary North Tipperary Agricultural Committee, who was present to meet the party, was called to the chair. Having thanked them, and expressed his strong feeling that one of the party should have acted as chairman, he congratulated them on the success of their cow-testing movement in South Tipperary. Referring to the day's outing, he said it had an educational and social value, and in coming to Roscrea they had had a treat. Here they saw a little world in itself almost self-contained and self-supporting. They had farming carried on in the most modern and extensive manner, and every moment while they were there they saw the spirit of enterprise and of industry, and he felt sure all would go back to their farms and very pleasant recollections of the visit. He would ask Mr. Sheehy if there were any suggestions for the organization of the future, and he would then invite discussion.

Mr. Sheehy, in the course of a very practical address, said that they had already done well in South Tipperary in the cow-testing movement, but it was up to them all to do better. Already they had fourteen societies in operation all over the South Riding, and these represented about one-third of the dairy farms in the county. In any movement of this kind, it was necessary to have something less than the potatoes plan, and he felt sure that in this case the ideal would be the same. To reach the importance of cow-testing a few things were needed. To think out the position was one important thing. It cost so much to keep the wastes, the cow giving 300 or 400 lbs that yielding double the quantity. The man who built up a good herd brought increased money returns from the milk, and he built up a reputation for his stock. In other countries the dairy cows were placed on an individual milk register, and the time was rapidly coming when the same system would be operating in this country. Cows would acquire their value from their records, and they should all prepare for these developments. To improve the dairy yield of their cows they were doing a work that was profitable to each of them individually and to the nation as a whole.

Having given some tellings facts and figures, he urged them all to continue to extend and develop the good work. Finally he tendered, on his own behalf and on behalf of the party, his thanks for the hospitality and kindness with which they were received there. (Applause.)

In the course of a discussion, Mr. John Fryday referred to the exceptionally dry summer, and said that all their experience was that cows, owing to the great shortage of grass, milked very badly compared with normal years. He thought that in registering cows this year that should be taken into account. He proposed:

"That the members of the Cow-Testing Association of South Tipperary, suggest to the Department that the minimum number of gallons to qualify a cow for registration should, for this year, be reduced from the present figure of 600 to 550 at the most. Owing to the exceptionally dry summer cows have yielded much below the average, and rigid adherence to the minimum of 600 gallons would have the effect of excluding many highly suitable animals."

Mr. Patrick Ryan (Kilpatrick) seconded, and strongly supported the remarks of the proposer. A number of members also supported the motion, which was passed unanimously, and Mr. Sheehy was requested to send a copy to the Department.

Mr. Fryday said before separating he wished to propose that their very best thanks be tendered to the Lord Abbott and Community, particularly Father Ailbe — one of their own — for the splendid way they had been received and for all the trouble that had been taken to make their day's outing profitable and enjoyable.

Mr. O'Brien seconded, and said nothing could exceed the hospitality and kindness with which they had been received. The chairman endorsed everything that had been said as to the hospitality and kindness with which they had been received, and he would personally convey their thanks. As to the excursionists, he felt sure they would go back with very pleasant recollections of the day they had spent in this place, with its beautiful scenery, its fine associations, every corner a hive of industry, where they had seen agriculture carried on in all directions in the most extensive manner. — Nenagh Guardian.

TIPPERARY TRADERS SUED.

During the past few weeks traders in Tipperary town have received writs from the High Courts against them for goods supplied.

These traders are people whose business premises were burned in the troubles of last winter, with which the public are only too familiar.

The traders concerned applied for, and were awarded, compensation for their losses at the Quarter Sessions, but up to the present they have not received any of this compensation.

Thus partially, and in some cases wholly, deprived of their means of livelihood, and without even a house to live in, these traders have been very hard hit, and at the present stage the service of the writs is a course that is considered exceedingly drastic.

If the traders had been compensated they would be only too willing to meet their liabilities as they have always done in the past.

RACES FOR OOLA.

Mr. M. Staphan presided last evening over a meeting of the Oola racing committee, at which it was resolved to hold horse and pony races on the farm next, any balance over to be devoted to a patriotic purpose.

GALBALLY PETTY SESSIONS.

There was a large number of cases requiring the attendance of two magistrates listed for hearing at last Wednesday's Petty Sessions Court at Galbally. Only the R.M. Major Pomeroy Colley, however, attended, and all cases, with which he could not deal, were necessarily adjourned.

TIPPERARY PIG FAIR.

The monthly pig fair on Thursday was fairly large. There was a big drop in prices, from 17s. to 12s. 10s., with stores 12 and 13 10s. each. Several cuts of hams were sold.

PRICE OF COAL IN TIPPERARY.

A LITTLE WONDER INDEED.

Our attention has been called to the record of Little Wonder, the property of Mr. W. T. Hogan, Bank place, at Tipperary Show. For seven years in succession the pony has been awarded the red rosette (first prize) in the class for ponies 12.2 and under, and secured, besides, a special prize in the jumping class for ponies 11.2 and under. This record must be unique, and Mr. Hogan is to be congratulated on the possession of so consistent a winner.

LATTIN WORKERS AND A SUGGESTED HALF-HOLIDAY.

At a meeting of the Lattin branch of the I.T.O.W. Union, Mr. J. Carroll (chairman) presiding, relating to a letter written to the County Council asking for a half-holiday on Saturday for the Council's employees, the members were satisfied with the consideration the Council gave to the matter, and especially the broad view the chairman expressed in discussing the subject. They also criticized the County Council for the district, who were present, in not giving support to the matter. — S. Power, sec.

TIPPERARY PETTY SESSIONS.

Licensing Cases Adjourned.

Congratulations from the Bench.

The above court, held on Thursday, was presided over by Major Pomeroy Colley, R.M.

The C.P.S. said there was a number of licensing cases entered for hearing, but two magistrates were required to dispose of them.

Chairman—I will adjourn them to the next court.

Congratulations.

Chairman—Before I proceed with the business of the court I desire to congratulate District Inspector Nevin on his recent promotion, and also Sergt. Nolan on his promotion to the rank of head constable.

Head Constable Nolan—Thank you, your worship, very much.

Chairman—I also desire to congratulate Mr. Tymon, solicitor, on his first appearance in court, and on the great distinction he won in his examinations. He has begun well, and I hope there is a great career awaiting him, and that he will be a credit to his profession in Tipperary.

C.P.S.—We all join you in that wish. Mr. Tymon briefly returned thanks.

New-road Cases Withdrawn.

Capt. W. H. Gallogly, D.I., charged Michael Allen, New road, Tipperary, with assaulting Mrs. Nora Wilson.

Mr. W. Frewan, solicitor—I understand all the cases have been settled. Nothing has happened since, and I think you can mark them "withdrawn."

Sergt. O'Brien—They have concluded themselves very well since.

The cases were marked "Withdrawn."

Again Adjourned.

The adjourned case against John Holburn, New road, for ill-treating his child and assaulting his wife was called.

Sergt. O'Brien—He was in hospital, and is now out, but I do not see him in court. He might not have got notice of the adjournment.

Chairman—I will adjourn the case to the next court, and let the police give him notice.

Possession of a House.

Lord Barrymore summoned John Maher, The Spittal, for possession of a house held by him at the weekly rent of £s. 13 8s. arrears are due.

Mr. Tymon, solicitor (for Mr. N. Maher, solicitor), who appeared for Lord Barrymore, said that notice to quit had been served, and possession demanded.

John Pressley deposed that the defendant had paid no rent since he became tenant on June 10th.

The defendant said when he signed the agreement as tenant he had a way of carrying on business as a boot-repairer, but at present he had no constant employment, and was getting only 12s. a week, out of which he had to support his wife and child. If he got constant employment he would pay the rent and arrears, and asked the chairman to give him a chance.

Mr. Tymon said defendant had no right to be in the house. They claimed possession.

Defendant—My wife's father and mother lived in the house for thirty-three years, and I got married into it.

Mr. Tymon—That does not arise.

Mr. Pressley said they had tried to convenience defendant in every way they could, but he made no attempt to pay.

The Chairman said he would have to give a decree for possession.

Defendant—That's poor thanks to a man after going through the war.

Chairman—Don't be talking like that. Is it because you are an ex-soldier you don't want to pay your debts or do anything?

Defendant—It is not. I will try to pay the rent if I get constant employment. I should get a chance to do so.

This concluded the business.

TIPPERARY LIVE-WEIGHT PIG MARKET.

At this market on Thursday there was a decrease in price from £3 18s. per cwt. of the previous week to £3 11s.

THE ABBEY, TEMPLEMORE.

Award of £35,000 Compensation for Burning.

The claim of the owners of the Abbey, Templemore, for compensation for the burning of this beautiful mansion was taken for hearing at Nench Courthouse on Friday morning of last week by his Honor, Mr. Sealy, K.C.

Mr. Devitt, B.L. (instructed by Messrs. W. Dwyer, solicitor, Roscrea, and W. Meagher, solicitor, Templemore), appeared for the applicants.

An elaborate detailed statement giving descriptive particulars of the interior and exterior of the Abbey, prepared by Mr. Bennett, auctioneer, Dublin, was read by counsel for his Honor.

A number of maps and photographs showing the mansion in outline and the various external and internal portions were also submitted.

Mr. Wm. Meagher, solicitor, Templemore, sworn and examined, stated in the course of his evidence that he had entered into an agreement with a Templemore syndicate for the purchase of the Abbey and its 1,229 acres of land.

This partnership was subsequently further extended, and Father Kieley and others were admitted and a new syndicate was formed.

Some time after the purchase had been effected the Auxiliary Division of the R.I.C. took possession and remained in the building for about four months.

A short time subsequent to their departure the Abbey was burned and destroyed. Before the burning lawyer Mr. Meagher stated that on the day on which the Auxiliaries had left he visited the place and made an inspection. He then brought down Mr. Bennett, of Dublin, who went through the house and made a detailed inventory.

The place was then locked up and carefully sheltered, and from time to time he paid some visits to it before it was burned.

On the morning of 15th June he saw some smoke coming from the direction of it, and on going up towards the place he was told by a man whom he met that the Abbey was on fire.

He reported the matter at the police barracks, and some of the police came to the scene of the conflagration.

After viewing the work of destruction it was apparent that it would be impossible to save the building, and they set about saving some of the finer parts.

The district inspector, and a sergeant and himself went round the house and just outside the hall door they found an empty petrol tin. They also discovered that some of the windows had been smashed and the glass broken and in many places had been deflected therefrom.

It was his opinion that the fire was started by a light which was used in the Abbey.

Mr. Sealy, in reply, said that he was not sure that the evidence was to the effect that he went to the Abbey and saw the burning on 15th June, but he had taken all circumstances into account.

In order to carry out the work he had charged 20 per cent. for contingencies likely to arise in the rebuilding. Temporary houses for storing of tools and shelter of workmen would be needed.

His Honor having heard the evidence of the two witnesses examined, he thought that in assessing compensation what he should really take into account was what the Abbey actually worth to the syndicate who had purchased. He could not compare the owners to country gentlemen who occupied mansions, or put them into the position of Sir John Gordon, who would be living in the Abbey and running it as a residence. These people never intended to live in it.

Mr. Devitt—But the owners were relying upon getting a buyer from England or the Continent, or upon having the Abbey purchased by a community for educational or some kindred purpose.

His Honor—That is a fair contingency, and I will make allowance.

Mr. Devitt then, in the course of a lengthy statement, said that no matter whether the local syndicate intended to live in the place or not, or no matter for what purpose they wished to use it, his Honor was bound by the fact that the Abbey was the property of his clients, and they were entitled to compensation commensurate with its value, and his Honor was bound to give them sufficient to restore it to its former beauty and condition.

The Court of Appeal had laid it down as its decision that in cases such as the one in question the basis for compensation was the amount necessary to reconstruct and restore. It cost £72,000, which was the figure estimated to put the Abbey into the condition it was before the burning, even though a penny was never spent on rebuilding, the duty of the judge was to give that amount. Was he going to deprive the peasant farmers who formed this syndicate of the value of their property?

Mr. Meagher hereupon rose and told his Honor that when he got Mr. Bennett to make the estimate of the Abbey he did so for the purpose of ascertaining the value of it for the purpose of having it advertised for sale. On that occasion Mr. Bennett told him that the property should bring about £30,000 at least.

About 600s. were around the house were under a plantation, and this portion of the land was of no use to the owners, as it was part and parcel of the mansion. Continuing, Mr. Meagher pointed out that Messrs. Battersby, auctioneers, Dublin, had received £20,000 for Kilmallock mansion, in Co. Cork, a short time ago, and he contended that the owners of the Abbey had an equally good opportunity of securing tenants for their place. The Abbey was a beautiful building, was well light, a sale of Templemore, and was most attractive.

Mr. Dwyer also told his Honor that some of the owners had been inquiring as to purchasing the mansion with a view to using it as a residence. It was said prominently adapted for any such purpose.

IRISH NATIONAL TEACHERS' ORGANISATION.

Dundrum Branch.

Mr. Cussen, Knockavilla N.S., presided at a special meeting of the above, held in Dundrum on the 17th September. The chief questions under consideration were: The draft copy of the new primary school programme, as drawn up by the national conference on school programmes, and the question of heating and cleaning schools.

After considerable discussion the following resolutions were passed:—
1. That this association is in sympathy with drastic action being taken to remedy the present unsatisfactory regulations in connection with the heating and cleaning of national schools, but in view of the unsettled state of the country we consider it desirable that such action be deferred for the present.

2. That the final approval of the I.N.T.O. of the suggested new programme for national schools be deferred until next congress, so that the teachers would have sufficient time to thoroughly examine this most important matter in all its bearings, and we further state that the drawing up of programmes is practically a waste of time and energy until the regular attendance of children is secured, and the school buildings and premises are made more suitable and comfortable.

The Lata Mounsignor O'Neill, Lattin.

The following resolution was passed in absence of members standing:—
That we wish to place on record our sincere and heartfelt regret at the death of the late Right Rev. Mounsignor O'Neill, P.P., V.C., Lattin, a distinguished Churchman and educationist, and a man who played a most important part in the lives of the Irish teachers of the day.

Mr. Dwyer expressed at the departure of the late Mounsignor, late assistant Auxiliary N.S., who was an active member of the association. She recently secured at an open competitive examination a valuable scholarship enabling her to take a course in a Dublin boarding school.

At its last quarterly meeting the following resolutions were passed unanimously:—

1. That we tender to our general secretary, Mr. O'Connell, Dublin, our sincerest sympathy on the death of his father, Rev. James O'Connell, who died recently in America. Father O'Connell had just completed a course of study in Maynooth College, and had secured his honor, friends, and many had for missionary work in the States.

2. That we tender to Miss O'Shea, late teacher in Ballyvaughan N.S., Knockavilla, who was a highly respected member of this association, and deep sympathy on the death of her father, Mr. O'Shea, U.S., a distinguished teacher, Irish scholar, and professor of Irish in Ballinacorney Irish College, U.S., Dundrum, hon. sec.

3. That we tender to Mrs. O'Shea, late teacher in Ballyvaughan N.S., Knockavilla, who was a highly respected member of this association, and deep sympathy on the death of her husband, Mr. O'Shea, U.S., a distinguished teacher, Irish scholar, and professor of Irish in Ballinacorney Irish College, U.S., Dundrum, hon. sec.

The assistance before him. Without that assistance he would have been utterly unable to arrive at a true estimate. Mr. Meagher was an able solicitor and a thorough gentleman. He also wished to thank Mr. Dwyer for his efforts in the case. Were it not for the assistance of these gentlemen, he would have given a decree for only £25,000, but when it was put before him that the Abbey would probably fetch from £30,000 to £40,000 in open competition, and when he took into account that the mansion was in good repair and was built as recently as 1882 he had no hesitation in giving a decree for £35,000.

LIMERICK QUARTER SESSIONS.

Claim for £20,000.

His Honor Judge Pigot sat on Monday in the County Crown Court, and took up the hearing of claims for malicious injuries.

Mrs. Agnes O'Donovan, proprietress of the Castleconnell Hotel, applied for compensation for the fatal shooting of her husband, the late Mr. Denis O'Donovan, on the evening of April 17 last, and for damage done to property and loss of business in connection with the tragic occurrence.

Mr. P. Lynch, K.C., and Mr. P. Kelly (instructed by Mr. J. Dundon, solicitor) appeared in support of the application, £20,000 for the loss of her husband, and £2,000 for damage to property.

Permission to make the claim had been given by the competent military authority.

Mr. Lynch, in opening the case, said the application was under two heads, one for loss sustained by the widow and her four children, and the other for damage to the hotel and property. On the evening of the occurrence Mr. O'Donovan had tea with his wife and then went into the bar to serve three of the constabulary, a sergeant and two men stationed at Newport, and who were after arriving in Castleconnell.

About that time an officer and some men came to the hotel and from the facts it appeared that both sections of the Crown forces—the men at the bar and those who had arrived from Kilmallock—were under a misapprehension regarding the character of the other. Shortly after they met firing took place in the bar of her hotel, and a young officer was killed by a bullet fired through the bar window.

A sergeant of the constabulary also lost his life in the firing. When these things had occurred and the conflict was over one would have thought that the whole matter was ended. But it was not so. Two men were brought out of the bar—the late Mr. O'Donovan and an unwounded constable—said placed facing a wall in the hotel yard, and there Mr. O'Donovan was shot. Subsequently Mr. O'Donovan was seen by a doctor, who found him in a dying condition, his death taking place some six to ten minutes later. The result of the medical examination showed that Mr. O'Donovan had been shot twice from behind, one shot striking the base of the spinal column and another the lower part of the right lung. There were four bullet wounds in front. The facts of the case would be laid before the Court, and counsel held that they would show that Mrs. O'Donovan was entitled to compensation for the loss she had sustained by the death of her husband, whose life was taken without excuse or justification.

Evidence was then given.

Joseph J. O'Mahony, C.E., gave testimony with regard to the plan of the premises, and the approaches to the yard in which Mr. O'Donovan was shot.

Margaret Berkeley said she was in the hotel on the date of the shooting. She was not at the hotel now. About eight o'clock on the evening of the occurrence witness saw three men at the bar and while in the hall observed two plain clothes men come in through the front door. Mr. O'Donovan was serving the men at the bar. Shortly after the two men entered by the front door she heard firing, and later saw a man fix a machine-gun facing the bar door. Firing went on, and witness heard Mr. O'Donovan in the bar say, "I don't know; I don't know." Then she heard cries of "Bring them out; bring them out!" Witness went upstairs to see who they were bringing out, but she did not see anyone. Witness was then in the kitchen, and she saw two men, one of whom she recognised as Mr. O'Donovan, brought across the yard, and heard them told to face the wall.

She was stopped by some four men from going into the yard. Witness was told to get in, or she would be shot. Witness went into the kitchen, and heard shots fired; recognising Mr. O'Donovan's voice, she heard the words, "Oh, oh!" After the firing the other man with Mr. O'Donovan was still standing facing the wall, and his hands on the cave shoot. Witness, when she saw Mr. O'Donovan on the ground, said, "My God, look what they are after doing; shooting an innocent man." The man near her said, "It is good enough for him, he is harbouring rebels."

By the Court—After she saw Mr. O'Donovan lying on the ground she saw men near him with revolvers. Dr. Ryan, dispensary medical officer,

KILMALLOCK PETTY SESSIONS.

Licensing Prosecutions.

Application for Certificate of Licence.

Invasion of Kilmallock Recalled.

At Kilmallock Petty Sessions, before Major Pomeroy Colley, R.M. (presiding) and Mr. H. Mackenison, R.M. Denis Flanagan, Kilmallock, was charged with a breach of the licensing laws on 27th August.

Sergeant Keohane stated that at 10.15 p.m. on 27th August he entered the licensed premises of the defendant. In the room off the bar he found a number of persons present whom he subsequently ascertained were bona fide travellers, and a man named John Carroll. When witness was questioning the travellers as to their names and addresses Carroll slipped out, and witness asked the publican to account for him, and he said that Carroll was working for him, and preparing harness for the Show. To witness's own knowledge Carroll was a harness maker, worked for Flanagan. Mr. Flanagan admitted the charge.

D.J. Elkins, Bruff, who prosecuted, said the house was well conducted. The Bench imposed a fine of 5s. and costs. For being on the premises during prohibited hours Carroll was fined 7s. and costs.

Patrick O'Brien was charged with a breach of the licensing laws on 30th August, and John Carroll, Jas. O'Connell, and John Graham with being unlawfully on the premises.

Sergeant Keohane stated that at 10.50 p.m. on 30th August he saw two men leaving the defendant's premises as he was passing. One of the men was John Carroll. He went to the shop door and entered. On entering he found two men working for the publican. The publican's wife admitted that the first slipped on her, and said Graham was then assisting in peering into the house.

Defendant admitted opening the premises, but said the men did not get fully.

The District Inspector said the house was well conducted.

A fine of 10s. and costs was imposed on the publican, the conviction not to be recorded. Carroll was fined 7s. 6d. and costs, and each of the others 5s.

Sergeant Keohane summoned Margaret Daly for being drunk and disorderly on the public street on 27th August. The sergeant said that he saw Daly and his wife in the road at a quarter past two o'clock. She was hearing him with a handkerchief. Her father was disapproving.

Castleconnell is poised to being called on to sue Mrs. O'Donovan for the cost of her legal expenses. He was dying at the time, and lived for only seven or eight minutes. He examined him on Monday. There were two bullet wounds in the back, one at the lower portion of the abdomen, another at the base of the spinal column, one in the right lung, and one in the region of the liver. The wounds had entrance marks but no exit. Deceased was a very healthy, active man. Witness made no post mortem.

Mrs. Agnes O'Donovan was the next witness examined, and said she was married in 1905 to the deceased. There were four children, the eldest being 15 and the youngest eight. Witness recollected the evening of the shooting, and her meeting an officer in the hotel. Witness asked him where her husband was, and he answered that he was in the bar, harbouring rebels. He showed a hole in the sleeve of his overcoat, saying, "See where they shot me." Witness asked him to get her husband, and he replied that he would be all right. Witness then returned to the sitting-room, where she heard shouts of "Bring them out; bring them out." The hotel business since Mr. O'Donovan's death had almost vanished.

Joseph Andrews, agency inspector Messrs. Murphy, Cork, said the deceased had been an agent of the firm for the past twenty years. He was paid by salary and commission. His remuneration for the past three years averaged £600 per annum.

Mr. Lynch said there was permission from the competent military authority to make the claim. He would withdraw the claim to compensation for damage to property.

His Honor reserved his decision. Fined 5s. and costs.

A number of certificates for licences were signed, there being no objection by the police except in the case of Mr. John O'Keefe, whose premises were destroyed on 23rd July last year, when a party of armed police invaded Kilmallock.

The District Inspector said that before a certificate could be granted it was necessary that the premises should have been opened at least one day during the past twelve months. He could produce evidence to prove that the premises had not been opened. The house was destroyed on 23rd July last year during the course of a conflict between police under the late District Inspector (Tobias) O'Sullivan and a party of civilians.

Major Colley said that when the premises were burned down he could not open.

Mr. O'Keefe (to the D.I.)—Are you not aware that the house was burned down?—Yes.

Are you aware it was burned before the Quarter Sessions?—No. He was not aware that compensation was awarded for the damage.

Sergeant Donoghue, R.I.C., William street Barracks, Limerick, said he was in charge of Kilmallock police station from December 12th to May 25th last. He had no recollection of seeing Mr. O'Keefe's premises open for the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Mr. O'Keefe—Is the house there at all?—The shop appears to be intact with the exception of one portion. It was not in a fit position to carry on business.

Sergeant Keohane said he was in charge at Kilmallock from 23rd May last up to the present month. In his opinion the premises had not been open for the sale of drink, but they could have been without his seeing them. On account of the house being burned down it was quite unfit to go into it.

Major Colley said the Bench were satisfied that the place was burned. If they did not give him a licence now it would put him in greater difficulties as regards getting the licence later. Neither of the D.I.'s witnesses could definitely prove that the premises were not opened. It was quite possible for Mr. O'Keefe to bring in a man and give him a bottle of stout on the premises without the knowledge of the police.

The Bench granted the application.

TROUBLE AT KILKENNY.

Political Prisoners Set the Prison Afire.

There has been some trouble recently at Kilkenny prison, where a large number of political prisoners were incarcerated.

On Sunday evening, following the refusal of a request for an extension of the period for recreation, the prisoners manifested their indignation by smashing several windows and a staircase.

On Monday afternoon, about four o'clock, the disturbance was renewed in the section occupied by prisoners undergoing hard labour sentences.

A request had been submitted that one visit a day be permitted instead of two each week, as at present. On learning that this concession would not be conceded, a number of the prisoners tied up the warden in charge of them, and having effectively gagged him, set fire to the building. Volumes of smoke issuing from the windows soon attracted attention, and a large number of people congregated in the vicinity of the building to watch developments.

However, within a short time the prison staff succeeded in extinguishing the flames. The prisoners continued demonstrating until near midnight.

There is a strong military guard continuously on duty at the prison.

BRUFF PETTY SESSIONS.

At this court, before Major Pomeroy Colley, R.M., and Mr. H. Dickenson, R.M., a number of persons were summoned by the police for using vehicles without lights after lighting-up time.

A fine of 2s. 6d. and costs were imposed in each case.

HOSPITAL PETTY SESSIONS.

There were no cases for hearing from this district.
