Barley Meal alone is not a perfect food. Though high in carbohydrates, it is low in oil and albuminoids. We are making up a meal consisting of 45 per cent. good kiln-dried barley, 10 per cent. of the best fish-meal low in oil, and the balance of 45 per cent. of imported food stuffs.

An ounce of practice is worth a ton of theory. Seeing is believing. The proof of the pudding is in the eating.

A TANKARDSTOWN FARMER writes: "Send me half a ton of the same Pig Meal as you sent my neighbours."

Another Farmer writes: "I put in a pen of slips with their backbones sticking through their backs. After feeding them for a fortnight on your meal I did not know them. In four weeks and three days from putting them in I sold them, weighing 13 stone each."

Analysis—64 per cent. oil and 161 per cent. albuminoids.

Also a first-class Calf and Cattle Meal suitable for dry or wet feeding. This Meal contains 9 per cent. oil and 15 per cent. albuminoids.

Terms:—
 Pig Meal - 15/- per cwt.

FARMING NOTES.

STORAGE OF POTATOES.

The results of experiments on storage of potatoes, carried out recently at the Agricultural College, Glasnevin, showed that the most dangerous source of infection arises from the direct contact of tubers with blighted foliage. Although blight has not been very prevalent in this year there have been reports of late appearances, and care should therefore be taken when potatoes are being dug to prevent tubers coming in contact with diseased foliage, and not to use the latter as covering for potatoes. Temporary covers, however, should be used when potatoes are being dug to prevent tubers coming in contact with diseased foliage, and not to use the latter as covering for potatoes. Temporary covers, however, should be used when potatoes are being dug to prevent tubers coming in contact with diseased foliage, and not to use the latter as covering for potatoes.

When potatoes are stored in pits or cellars, and this is the usual method, the bulk of the crop should be covered with a layer of straw or similar material, and the pits should be covered with a layer of soil of similar depth. Protection should be given to prevent the direct rays of the sun, and should be made by covering small bundles of straw with a layer of soil of similar depth. #### Effect of Drought on Fertilisers in the Soil.

Discussing the question as to what effect can fertilisers added to the soil in seasons such as that now drawing to a close, be relied upon for next year's crops in the event of rain, the journal of the Ministry of Agriculture, Dr. Russell, of the Rothamsted Experimental Station, says that there is abundant evidence to show that potash and phosphates remain unchanged during a dry season, and that they will therefore come in effectively well for succeeding crops in the rotation; no loss need be feared. The fertiliser added has not been washed, but is simply lying where it can be taken up by the plant. This holds true of sulphate of potash, muriate of potash, nitrate, superphosphate, basic slag, mineral phosphates, and lime manures.

Nitrogenous manures, however, are liable to behave differently. Some of them have probably been taken up by the crop, and if so cannot be expected to act in the soil again. Cases came to Dr. Russell's notice where a quick-acting nitrate was taken up by the grass crop, as shown by the dark green colour and additional growth of herbage; while the slower acting nitrolin was not taken up, but lay on the soil unchanged. Nitrogenous manures left thus unabsorbed will probably change to nitrate when the soil becomes sufficiently wet, and they may then be taken up by a crop or washed out of the soil; but they are not likely to be left unchanged in the soil. So much depends on local conditions that it is difficult to lay down general rules, but Dr. Russell offers the following opinions:

1. On grass land intended for hay the nitrogenous manure will probably remain effective for the coming season. It has happened after a great drought that heavy rain was followed by an unusually copious growth of grass.

2. On arable land intended for winter corn the nitrogenous manure may also remain effective, especially in view of the fact that work is well forward and sowing is likely to be early.

3. On arable land intended for roots or spring corn on the other hand, the nitrogenous manure may suffer considerable loss. It is likely to change into nitrate rapidly if it is not already in that form, and then it is liable to be washed out of the soil. If the winter should be wet there will be just as much need for nitrogenous manure next spring as if this season had been an ordinary one. This statement, however, does not apply to potash and phosphates, which are not liable to be washed out, except, perhaps, from very light sandy soil under heavy rainfall.

IRISH AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE PRICES

The following is the Department's return of the average wholesale prices of agricultural produce at certain Irish markets during the week ended 22nd October, 1921, as compared with the previous week. The prices shown are the average wholesale prices paid in the markets mentioned for the particular quality of produce sold there. In some centres the better qualities of produce are purchased by merchants direct from producers without passing through the regular market.

HEN EGGS.—The advance of the season and the chiller nights have reduced egg yields and supplies have in consequence fallen off. In light of a steady demand, prices ruled higher at all markets this past week. At Belfast the previous rate of 31s 6d per 120 for hen eggs advanced to 40s 10d, and at Londonderry from 27s 6d to 30s. Dublin prices advanced from 30s to 33s 9d, and the rise at Ennisorthy was from 25s to 28s 2d. At Cork and Limerick the previous week's rates of 32s 11d and 27s 6d respectively touched a common level of 31s 2d at both centres. Duck eggs were also dearer at all markets. Prices at Belfast rose from 32s 11d to 41s 8d per 120, and at Londonderry from 27s 6d to 30s. The advance at Ennisorthy and Cork was similar to that in hen eggs and similar values were realized for each description. The rise at Limerick was from 25s to 31s 2d.

FARMERS' BUTTER.—There was little change in values during the week. The price of 2s 5d in Londonderry was a drop of 2d per lb on the previous week, and a similar drop to 1s 10d was noted at Ennisorthy. Dublin, Cork and Limerick repeated the previous week's rates of 1s 5d, 11d, and 1s 4d per lb, respectively.

CATTLE.—A checkers at most markets reported little or no change in values. Dublin and Belfast remained steady at 11s 6d and 11s per pair respectively. Londonderry prices were 1d 6d unchanged at 5s 8d, but at Ennisorthy prices improved from 7s to 7s 6d, and at Cork from 5s 4d to 5s 8d. There was a rise in price from 7s 6d to 9s per pair at Belfast, and in Londonderry and Cork there was a falling rise from 5s 2d to 5s 6d and from 3s 4d to 3s 6d respectively. At Ennisorthy prices gave way from 4s 6d to 5s 0d per pair. There was no material alteration in the price for Dicks. At Belfast the price per pair fell from 9s to 8s 8d, and advanced in Londonderry from 5s to 5s 2d. Dublin prices were unchanged at 7s. At Cork prices rose from 7s 1d to 7s 4d per pair, but were unchanged in Limerick at 5s.

POTATOES.—The level of prices for potatoes was much the same as the preceding week. At Belfast prices fell by 1d per cwt. to 3s 5d, and advanced by the same amount to 3s 1d in Londonderry. Dublin, Ennisorthy and Cork were from 5s 8d, 4s 8d and 5s 4d respectively. At Limerick prices advanced from 4s 6d to 4s 10d per cwt. The average price per cwt. for Up-to-Date varieties during the week was—Belfast 3s 2d; Cork 5s 3d; Limerick 4s; Ballymore 2s 6d, and Athy 3s. These were practically the prices of the previous week at the first four mentioned centres.

PORK.—An upward trend in pork prices was observable at Belfast and Londonderry, whereas prices dropped still further at Dublin, Ennisorthy, Cork and Limerick. Belfast prices improved from 100s per cwt. dead weight to 115s, and Londonderry prices from 98s 6d to 101s. At Dublin prices, however, gave way from 97s 6d to 88s, and at Ennisorthy and Cork from 96s 6d and 96s respectively to a common level of 92s. At Limerick the drop in price was from 95s 6d to 91s per cwt.

also remain effective, especially in view of the fact that work is well forward and sowing is likely to be early.

3. On arable land intended for roots or spring corn on the other hand, the nitrogenous manure may suffer considerable loss. It is likely to change into nitrate rapidly if it is not already in that form, and then it is liable to be washed out of the soil. If the winter should be wet there will be just as much need for nitrogenous manure next spring as if this season had been an ordinary one. This statement, however, does not apply to potash and phosphates, which are not liable to be washed out, except, perhaps, from very light sandy soil under heavy rainfall.

POSTERS.—More Posters are printed at The County Printing Works, Tipperary, than in any other two Printing Offices in the County. Of course, there are reasons for this—superior workmanship and prompt service.

MAGNETIC SANDS.

In the district of the south-western part of Norway, there is a place called Lofoten, where a great mass of iron ore is found. This ore is of a magnetic nature, and is used for the manufacture of magnets. The magnetic sands are found in the form of small particles, and are used for the manufacture of magnets. ### HOSPITALITY OF ANTS.

It is well known that ants harbour a variety of other insects in their nests, particularly Gamalid mites, and from a study of ants in Canada it has been found that the ants willingly tolerate the presence of the gamalid mites, and even protect them. The mites are found in the nests of the ants, and are used for the manufacture of magnets. The magnetic sands are found in the form of small particles, and are used for the manufacture of magnets.

TO MEASURE A RIVER.

Anybody can measure a river, if he has a compass or any mechanical means whatever. The man who desires to make the experiment should place himself at the edge of the stream, then stand perfectly still, face the opposite bank, and lower the beam of his hat until it just cuts the opposite bank. Then let him put both his hands under his chin, to steady his head, and turn slowly round until the hat beam cuts some point on the level ground behind him. Mark the spot where the hat beam cuts the ground, then pace off the distance, and it will be found about the breadth of the river.

KEEP YOUR HEAD ABOVE YOU WILL DO IT.

Reliability is better than brilliancy. Faithfulness and dependability make better workers, and accomplish more in the long run, than do showy talents.

POLITICS WITHOUT RELIGION LACK FOUNDATION.

But religion without politics lacks quite half its content. Christianity is the heaven, but so also is politics the lamp.

SEE HOW THE RINGING RIBBLES SPREAD.

Wider and wider spreads. God knows what word at random said. Shall touch at last the eternal shore. —Canon F. Langbridge.

FINDING OPPORTUNITY.

If you faithfully tread the path of daily duty, you will sometime find Opportunity walking beside you.

It is rather in our moments of prosperity than in a time of sorrow that we need to set a guard over ourselves. Characters that resist hardship are often known to collapse under success. For nations as for individuals this is a salutary thought—God tests us by the good things as well as, or more than, by the bad things He sends us. —Berkeley.

THE CONFERENCE.

NO DEVELOPMENTS TILL MONDAY.

The Cabinet met to-day (Friday) at the House of Commons, the Prime Minister presiding.

The Press Association says it can be stated with confidence that there will be no developments of any kind in the Irish situation before Monday's debate.

Our Dublin correspondent wires:—After their meeting with Mr. Lloyd George and Lord Birkenhead last evening, Mr. Arthur Griffiths and Mr. Michael Collins were informed that there would be no further conference before Monday.

This is accepted as an indication that the Prime Minister is not desirous of meeting the Sinn Fein representatives before he can go into the conference knowing he has the full support of Parliament.

It is stated that Mr. Lloyd George has every hope of being able to leave for the Washington Conference on Friday next, a fact not without significance.

The Sinn Fein Ard Fheis was again private to-day.

IRISH ORGANISER CHARGED AT CARDIFF.

At Cardiff to-day (Friday), Joseph Patrick Conolly, organiser of the South Wales branches of the Irish Self-Determination League, was charged on remand with unlawfully hoarding revolvers and explosives to the danger of life and property in the United Kingdom, and with being concerned with David Humphrey Evans and Kitty Evans (committed for trial at Merthyr) in contravening the Explosives Substances Act (1883).

MUNITIONS BONUS TO BE WITHDRAWN.

The Press Association learns on good authority that as a result of the ballot of the engineers and shipbuilding trades there will be no dispute over the employers' proposal to withdraw the Ministry of Munitions bonus, in three stages, on November 1st, December 1st, and January 1st.

TIPPERARY PETTY SESSIONS.

LICENSING PROSECUTIONS.

A TREE-TRIMMING SEQUEL.

At Tipperary Petty Sessions on Thursday the magistrates present were Major Pomeroy Colley, R.M. (presiding) and Mr. J. H. Mercer, R.M.

Railway Prosecution.

The G.S. and W. Railway Company charged John Maher, Glenbane, Emly, with travelling on the railway without a ticket.

Mr. J. O'Dwyer, solicitor, appeared for the prosecution.

A signman named James Lynan stated that he saw the defendant travelling on the train from Kingsbridge to Cork on June 1st. When the train arrived at Emly he found the defendant at the back of the station. He had a return ticket from Clonmel to Limerick Junction which was out of date.

Defendant, who did not appear, was fined £1, and £1 costs.

Licensing Case Adjourned.

Patrick Ryan, licensed publican, James street, Tipperary, was charged with a breach of the Licensing Act on October 17th.

Mr. N. E. Maher, solicitor, who appeared for the defendant, said the summons had been only served the other day, and prior to that he had arranged to be away from home on very important business. He (Mr. Maher) therefore applied for an adjournment to next sessions.

The Court granted the application.

Licensing Prosecutions.

Head Constable Nolan charged Martin Ryan, publican, Main street, Tipperary, with breaches of the Licensing Act on three different dates.

A number of men were charged with being found on the premises on each of the three occasions, but none of them appeared in court.

Mr. J. E. D'Arcy, solicitor, said the case had been adjourned from a previous court owing to the illness of Mr. Ryan's wife. Mrs. Ryan was still ill, and he handed to the Court a medical certificate to that effect. As she was a necessary witness in one of the cases, he asked for a further adjournment.

Head Constable Nolan objected to any further adjournment, and the Court decided to go on with the cases, Major Colley remarking that the magistrates, in dealing with it, would make due allowance for Mrs. Ryan's absence.

In the first charge, of selling after hours, Sergt. Reddington gave evidence that on the night of September 6th he was accompanied by two constables when, about 10.35, he heard the noise of the rattling of glasses and cork-pulling on the premises of the defendant. He knocked, and got admittance, and found a number of men, all belonging to the town, in the bar drinking whiskey, beer, and porter. He asked for publican to account for their presence at that hour, and the publican said he would do so when he came to court.

To Mr. D'Arcy—The door was opened for witness immediately he knocked.

In the second case the defendant was charged with a similar offence on Saturday night, September 10th.

Sergt. Reddington stated that, accompanied by two constables, he was passing the defendant's door when, about 9.45, he heard the noise of glasses clinking and cork-drawing inside. On knocking and gaining admittance he found several men from the town in the bar drinking. Asked to account for their presence, Mr. Ryan said, as he had said on a former occasion, that he would do so when he appeared in court. Mr. Ryan had a six-days' licence, and his closing hour on a Saturday night was nine o'clock.

Cross-examined by Mr. D'Arcy, witness said he was sure his watch was right on the occasion, as he had compared it with the post-office clock.

When you were coming out of the premises did a soldier come in?—A soldier was admitted by Mr. Ryan as I was going out. I took the soldier's name. He didn't have a drink on the premises, but walked out.

For the defence, Mr. Ryan, examined by Mr. D'Arcy, said that when the police called it was 9.45 by the clock, which was twenty minutes fast.

You heard the evidence of the sergeant with regard to the soldier?—Yes; I have a clear remembrance of what happened.

Did the soldier come in after the sergeant went out?—He did.

Did he have a drink?—He did.

Why did you serve the soldier after the ordinary hours of closing?

Mr. Mercer, R.M.—The soldier is not before us at all.

Mr. D'Arcy—It may be a determining factor in the case.

The defendant said that when the police were inside taking the names a knock came to the door and he opened it. Witness went to the door and opened it, and the soldier said he was an officer's servant. I told him he could not come in, said witness, but he said he was entitled to come in until half-past ten. During the time the military were in control of the town the military police told us we were to serve the military till half-past ten. This soldier stayed inside and had a drink, and he took his name and number.

Mr. Mercer—You are not entitled to serve a soldier any more than a civilian after closing hours. There is no special law in this matter for soldiers or anybody else.

Witness—What was I to do when the military police made me keep the premises open till eleven o'clock, as they did on several occasions?

Mr. D'Arcy—Things were very much upset in the town last winter, and the military police were in charge, and the ordinary law didn't seem to run at all.

Defendant—I am only just showing how we were misled.

The third charge, of selling after hours, and refusing to admit the police, was then heard.

Sergt. Reddington stated that while on plain clothes duty, in company with Constables Kelly and Shearin, on the night of September 18th, hearing the noise of cork drawing, etc., inside the defendant's premises at 11.30, they stopped, and witness listened at the door for half a minute, when he heard a further noise of cork drawing. He knocked, and was delayed about ten minutes, after which Mrs. Ryan came to the door and admitted them, asking what they wanted coming into the house at that hour. Witness said they came to search the premises. On going upstairs witness found three men sitting in a small room drinking. Witness asked Mrs. Ryan, who was with them, to account for their presence, and Mr. Ryan said they were his guests. Witness added that in the bar everything had been taken off the counter.

Head Constable Nolan—Did a person come to the door after you knocked?—A person came towards the door and walked back again. I don't know whether it was Mr. or Mrs. Ryan, or who it was. Then I heard the sound of footsteps and the carrying of glasses and bottles upstairs. I was delayed for about ten minutes, until the place was cleared.

Cross-examined by Mr. D'Arcy—When you knocked first you were under the impression that there was somebody in the bar?—Yes.

You were also under the impression that somebody came to the door shortly after you knocked. Did that person address you?—No.

After knocking you heard the rattle of bottles and glasses and cork-drawing?—I did.

I put it to you that whoever was in the bar had just time to finish drawing the corks and to go upstairs and give the drinks to the parties there?—No; it is my firm belief that the people whom I met in the little room upstairs were in the bar when I first knocked.

You admit at the same time that even after you knocked the drawing of corks continued in the bar?—Yes.

Would it be a likely thing that whoever was in the bar would deliberately go on making a noise which must attract your attention if that person wanted to avoid breaking the law?—They might not know who was there at the time.

Major Colley—Did you state who you were?—Nobody asked me who I was, but somebody came to the door and ran back into the bar.

Was there any evidence in the bar of the place having been recently cleared up?—Yes; the counter was wet, as if it had been only just wiped over with a cloth.

Constable Kelly stated that when he and Sergt. Reddington were at the door they took note of the time they were delayed by consulting their watches. When Mrs. Ryan opened the door both of them looked at their watches together. They were kept exactly ten minutes.

Constable Shearin stated that he heard somebody come to the door and the sound of corks being drawn. He went round to the back and stayed in the lane for fear anybody would get out that way. After he went there Sergt. Reddington continued knocking very loudly for fully ten minutes, and Mr. Ryan should have heard him.

For the defence, Mr. Ryan, examined by Mr. D'Arcy, said he was at the "pictures" in the Town Hall on that night, which was a Sunday night, along with three friends. They left the Town Hall at about half-past ten, and he asked them to come with him to his place as his guests and have a drink. They came with him and went straight upstairs. They had two drinks, for which none of them paid. Witness supplied the first drink and Mrs. Ryan the second. Witness had a drink with them himself. Witness heard no knocking, but when Mrs. Ryan came up she said there was somebody at the door. He told her to go down immediately and open it.

How long would that be after the first knocking?—A couple of minutes.

Would it be long enough for her to finish whatever she was doing in the bar and to come up to you?—Yes.

In your opinion was there any undue delay in admitting the police?—There was no undue delay in my opinion. Witness here repeated his statement made in the previous case as to the military compelling publicans to remain open.

Mr. D'Arcy—During the "terror" in Tipperary the publicans closed their premises from half-past five to seven o'clock for the remainder of the night.

Head Constable Nolan (cross-examined witness)—Why didn't you bring your three friends here to-day to give evidence on your behalf?—I told them I was looking for an adjournment.

Major Colley—Would they have come?—They would, of course.

Mr. D'Arcy said he was in the unfortunate position of being without an important witness in the case, Mrs. Ryan, who was unable to attend. As to the absence of the men who were found on the premises, it was common knowledge that some people, no matter what they were charged with, would not recognise that Court. He had advised Mr. Ryan to bring these men there as witnesses, and he (Mr. D'Arcy) could not help their not being present. His instructions were that they would corroborate Mr. Ryan. In the first two cases Mr. Ryan admitted the charges, but in the third case he (Mr. D'Arcy) respectfully submitted there should be a dismissal. The sergeant undoubtedly knocked loudly enough at the door to be heard, but after knocking he still heard the sound of the drawing of corks in the bar. If the defendant thought he was committing a breach of the Licensing Act it was not likely that at that hour, after hearing a knock at the door, he would continue making a noise in the bar.

Mr. Mercer—Supposing the Court adjourned this case, do you think you would be able to secure the attendance here as witnesses of the men found on the premises?

Mr. D'Arcy—Mr. Ryan informs me he will be able to secure the attendance of two of the witnesses. The third is not now in Tipperary.

Major Colley said the case was a very serious one, and they would not like to prejudice the defendant in any way. They therefore adjourned it for a fortnight for the attendance of witnesses.

In answer to the Court, Mr. England, C.P., said there had been no conviction against the defendant under the Licensing Act for over five years.

Major Colley announced that the decision of the Court in the first case was that the publican be fined £1, not to be recorded. The parties found on the premises, and who did not appear, were fined 10s. 6d. each except two, for whom Mr. D'Arcy appeared, and who were fined 5s. each. In the second case the publican was fined £5, the conviction to be recorded on the licence, and the parties found on the premises, 10s. 6d. each.

Assault Case.

Head Constable Nolan charged Michael Wall and Francis Ryan, St. Michael street, with assaulting Edward Cussen, of the same street.

Mr. J. E. D'Arcy, solicitor, appeared for the defendants.

Sergt. Reddington gave evidence of being called to the house of Miss Hannah Hayes, St. Michael street, on September 16th. He saw there Edward Cussen, who was bleeding from the lip and jaw, who complained of having been assaulted. Cussen was a lodger in Miss Hayes' house. The trouble took place, it appeared, over the branches of a tree that grew in Mr. Wall's yard, and overhung a patch of ground at the back of Miss Hayes' premises adjoining.

Edward Cussen, examined by Head Constable Nolan, stated that Miss Hayes requested him to cut the branches of a tree which grew in Mr. Wall's ground and overhung Miss Hayes' ground. While he was cutting them in the afternoon Mr. Wall's daughter came out and asked who gave him liberty to cut the branches. He had only cut about three branches, and then went away. Later that evening, as he was carrying a ladder on his shoulder to the tennis ground, Wall and Ryan were standing at Wall's front door. Wall ran at him and threatened him for cutting the branches of the tree, and Ryan, who had something in his hand, struck him on the jaw and over the mouth, and drew blood from him, stunning him. His wounds were dressed by a doctor.

Cross-examined by Mr. D'Arcy, witness said he had known Wall for over twenty years, and never heard of his having assaulted anybody. He was a respectable man. He had known Francis Ryan by sight for only a short time. He was a lodger at Wall's. When Wall's daughter objected to his cutting the branches he had already cut two, finished cutting the third, and went away. He had not been speaking to Wall for the past two years.

Cross-examined as to whether Wall actually assaulted him, witness said—He undoubtedly rushed out and caught me by the arm and threatened me. I don't remember him striking me.

Did he say: "Nod, I want to have a chat with you about that tree"?—Nothing of the kind.

Did you strike Ryan with the ladder?—No.

Did you attempt to strike him with it?—I did not.

Miss Hannah Hayes gave evidence that she gave authority to Cussen to cut the branches. She saw the assault in the street in the evening. Wall caught Cussen by the shoulder and hit him three times. Then young Ryan pulled something, either a penknife or a revolver, out of his pocket and hit Cussen with it. Both Wall and Ryan hit Cussen at the same time.

Mr. D'Arcy, in cross-examination, put several questions as to the credibility of the witness, who said she had some ex-Service men to prove to the assault.

John Gaynor, an ex-Service man, stated he was a witness of only part of the row. He saw Ryan strike Cussen with his fist on the side of the head, and then Wall got hold of Ryan and pulled him back.

For the defence, Francis Ryan, examined by Mr. D'Arcy, stated he was employed by Mr. Gubbins, clerk of the union, and had been living in Tipperary only four months. He was lodging at Wall's. He had no grudge against Cussen, and had only known him by sight a very short time, and had never spoken to him. He was after tea and was going back to work when he saw Mr. Wall talking to Cussen outside in the street. Cussen had a ladder under his arm, and he gave witness a stroke of the ladder in the chest. Witness asked him, "What do you mean by striking me?" and Cussen gave him another shove o' the ladder. Witness then, in self-defence, gave him a couple of blows with his fist in the face. Wall never attempted to strike Cussen, but caught him gently by the arm, and asked him who gave him permission to cut the branches.

Cross-examined by Head Constable Nolan, witness said he didn't know how Wall could have got the wounds.

Witness strenuously denied having anything in his hand, and said he used nothing more than his fist, and that only in self-defence.

Michael Wall also gave evidence absolutely denying that he struck Cussen. He saw Ryan strike Cussen, but he had nothing in his hand.

To Head Constable Nolan, witness said Cussen wasn't a fighting man, but there was a woman in the case, and she was the boss, and Cussen had to do everything he was told.

Mr. Joseph Gubbins, clerk of the union, said Ryan was employed at his office, and was an exceptionally good young man, and not at all likely to commit an unprovoked assault on anyone. He had always looked on him as a most respectable youth. He had known Michael Wall for thirty-five years, and had the highest opinion of him, and never heard of him molesting anybody. He considered Cussen also a very quiet, inoffensive man.

Mr. D'Arcy said the case was really a trivial one, and he asked the Court, under all the circumstances, to dismiss the case against Wall and to deal with young Ryan under the First Offenders Act, or else adjourn it for a few months to see how the parties would get on.

Major Colley said the Court would dismiss the case against Wall. Ryan had no doubt acted under provocation, and in his case they would impose a small fine of 10s.

Two Months for Wife Assault.

For assaulting his wife a man named Halloran, of New road, Tipperary, who did not appear in court, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment.

Mrs. Halloran said that on June 25th last defendant struck her and followed her into the street with a razor in his hand, threatening to kill her. He contributed nothing to the support of his infant child.

TIPPERARY BOARD OF GUARDIANS.

Release of the Prisoners Demanded.

England Setting a Bad Example.

The fortnightly meeting of the above board held on Saturday was presided over by the chairman, Mr. M. Kirby. The names of the members present will be found in the report of the District Council.

Release the Prisoners.

The following resolution, proposed by the chairman, and seconded by Mr. Boddy, was passed:—"That we demand as a right that release unconditionally of all political prisoners at present confined in English and Irish gaols and internment camps, as we are convinced that this detention is a violation of all international usage, and is not calculated to promote the welfare of this country."

The Chairman said these poor fellows in the camps and gaols are suffering terribly, and he thought England would be well advised to release them, and their release would tend in no small way to bring about peace, which they were wishing for, and for which the whole country is wishing. The demand they were making for the release of their fellow-country men and women echoed throughout the length and breadth of Ireland.

Mr. Boddy said they were true, brave bold men and women, who were willing to sacrifice their lives for the freedom of their native land.

Chairman—There was no crime against them only that they loved their country.

Mr. Fitzgerald—Which every man should do, and none of us should be called Irishmen if we do not. We will not allow England to trample on us any way.

Mr. Toomey—We will not—never.

Chairman—No doubt they are suffering, and we know it from people the accuracy of whose statements we need not doubt. I know it myself from good authority that some of those poor fellows have been lying on the boards, and the parcels and letters sent to them did not reach them. That state of affairs is bad enough.

Mr. Boddy—Coming from a nation that went out to fight for small nationalities, is it leaving down a very bad example by holding the prisoners.

Mr. Ferris—They should let them out.

The remainder of the business was routine.

tobacco, cigarettes, fancy soap, etc. One of the members of the Stone family had been shot shortly before. Witness's wife had left by the back when the soldiers came in. After leaving the shop the party went to Keane's public-house at the opposite side of the street. Some of the soldiers were drunk, with bottles sticking out of their pockets. After spending some time in the village they left, but came back about eight o'clock that night. Four soldiers stood near his premises. On seeing them witness looked up the shop and left, as he considered his life was in danger. He went to a neighbour's house, from which he had a view of his own premises, and in about three-quarters of an hour afterwards he saw them on fire. Everything was right, and there was no fire there when he left the premises. There was a large quantity of paraffin in the shop. Keane's public-house, twenty yards away, was also set on fire. The military were in the village all the time, and shots were continually going off. Major King came out to Killusty next day, and said that only there were two officers present. John Byrne's place would also be burned.

A decree for £2,100 was given.

From Fethard.

John Becht was awarded £31 for the smashing of a window in his drapery premises in Fethard on June 20th.

Mr. Hearne (instructed by Mr. G. A. Nolan, solicitor), for applicant.

Wm. Tierney, draper, Main street, Fethard, was awarded £100 for damage sustained by the smashing of two plate-glass windows and for boots, clothing, etc., belonging.

Mr. Hearne (instructed by Mr. Nolan), who appeared for applicant, said the damage was caused on the same night as the previous case. As a result of some military officers having been shot soldiers came on in Fethard that night, and did considerable damage.

The same applicant was awarded £23 for a plate-glass window broken on December 30th.

Thomas Donovan was awarded £28 for damage to windows and goods and money taken from his business premises in Fethard. Witness said eighteen bottles of rum and eighteen bottles of port wine were taken.

Mr. Hearne, for applicant, said the damage was done on the night of the shooting of the officers.

£500 in Lisnagaul Case.

John Moroney claimed £622 for the destruction to his premises at Lisnagaul, Glen of Abrow, and for goods and property destroyed.

Mr. Kenny (instructed by Mr. D'Arcy, solicitor), for applicant, who said he was a shoemaker. There was an ambush at Lisnagaul on November 15th last, in which several policemen were killed. On that evening a number of policemen visited his place and brought him out and put him against the gable wall of the house. They broke the windows, smashed and broke the furniture, and also kicked about the tools and effects in a lean-to shed which they subsequently set on fire, and also a quantity of hay.

A decree for £500 was given.

Thomas Cunningham, dentist, St. Michael's street, Tipperary, applied for £250 for damages to his premises.

Mr. Kenny, B.L. (instructed by Mr. J. F. D'Arcy), for applicant.

The applicant stated that the adjoining premises, owned by Miss Ryan, were set on fire, and during the attempt to put out that fire a large quantity of water got into his rooms and workshop.

To Mr. Kenny: Glass was broken in the windows, and carpets and other things destroyed.

His Honor—What other things.

Applicant—Dental machines.

His Honor—Had you things like that upstairs?—I had. The workshop was upstairs.

His Honor gave a decree for the full amount.

The Clanwilliam Club claimed £35 for damage for the breaking of a window and loss of whiskey and a coat taken from the premises.

Mr. J. O'Dwyer for applicants.

After hearing the evidence a decree was granted for the full amount.

KILMALLOCK ARBITRATION COURT.

Some Interesting Cases.

The Cow With the Crooked Leg.

An Arbitration Court sat at Kilmallock on Friday of last week, when a number of interesting cases were dealt with.

Kilmallock Rural Council summoned Michael Burke, Sarsfield street, Kilmallock, for £2 2s. amount of rent due by the defendant at the time of his vacation of a cottage the property of the complainant.

Mr. J. J. Power, B.A., solicitor, appeared for the council. Defendant was not professionally represented.

The rent collector gave evidence to the effect that the defendant refused to pay.

The defendant stated he refused to pay the rent owing to the neglect of the cottage by the District Council.

Mr. Power—What was wrong with the premises?—Before I left the premises I was writing to the council for a number of years, and never got a reply. My complaint was of a nuisance of a most aggravating kind. There was a channel at the back door which the council created, and I had to take away the slaps every day, myself and my children. It was the council that was at fault. Dr. Cleary proved that it was in an uncanny condition over and over again. Defendant added that his neighbours used to keep pigs, he used to keep pigs himself, but at a distance from the house.

Mr. Power said the other Tenants Act did not apply in this case, it was a case between the defendant and his neighbours. The landlord was bound to keep the premises in habitable repair. The defendant was not entitled to retain his rent for the mere fact that a nuisance existed.

The President said that the terms of the agreement which he had read were that the defendant was to keep the premises in habitable repair and pay his rent. He was bound to keep and maintain the cottage in good repair.

Defendant said he owed rent from March 1st to September 11th, which was about £2 2s. He did not actually refuse to pay what he owed, and it was under protest he did pay.

After consideration the president announced that the court decided, on the defendant's admission, to give a decree for £2 2s. and costs. The agreement was there, and they could not do anything. The defendant had, if he wished, the option of appealing the case, within four days, to the district court.

Nicholas Dillane, Columns, summoned John Bolton, Sarsfield street, for possession of a house.

Mr. Power for the defendant.

The complainant said the house was let to the defendant at 1s. weekly. Since October 9th, 1920, witness had not received any rent from the defendant.

Mr. Power (to complainant)—Who is bound to keep the premises in repair? There was no remark about that. I only let him the shell of the house as it stood.

Was there not a document in writing drawn up by Archdeacon O'Shea?

Complainant replied that he could not remember what was in that document. He only let the house as it stood, but did not bind himself to do any repairs.

licence; Mrs. M. Hogan, Main street, Tipperary; Daniel Kennedy, Clonoulty; Mrs. Bridget Kennedy, Gould's Cross; Wm. Maher, Earls Hill; Mrs. H. Mcaney, Cashel; Michael O'Carroll, Cappawhite; Thomas O'Connell, Bansha; Mrs. Margaret O'Dwyer, Cashel; J. Ryan, Graffin; John Ryan, Davis street, Tipperary; Charles Deedy, Commons; Mrs. Margaret Walsh, Ballymohusk, confirmation of transfers. John Dwyer, Donohill, Mrs. Mary G. Dwyer, transfers to their own names.

The application of Kate Hayes, Clonoulty, for a new licence was refused.

Mr. Maher for applicant.

The following solicitors appeared for the different applicants:—Messrs. Wm. Frewen, J. F. D'Arcy, J. O'Dwyer, N. F. Maher, F. J. O'Connor (Thurles), C. M. Barry, and B. J. Connelly (Cashel).

John Bolton said when he was taking the house from Dillane he took complainant down to Archdeacon O'Shea, and asked Dillane if that was sufficient guarantee to get the house. Complainant said he would not let the house without securities. Witness asked him if Archdeacon O'Shea's security would be sufficient, and he said it would. They went down to Canon O'Shea, and the latter pulled out his notebook and wrote down an agreement between them, which was to the effect that Mr. Dillane was to give him (Mr. Bolton) the house at 1s. a week and keep it in proper repair. The condition of the house was very bad at present. The rain was coming down through the roof. He was prepared to pay Mr. Dillane the forty-three weeks' rent which he owed if the house was put in proper repair. A new door was required.

Ultimately the parties settled the matter between them. The defendant paid the amount of rent due to the complainant, who promised to put up a new door.

The president of the court said he would make a personal inspection of the house, and the complainant agreed to act on whatever further recommendations the president might make in the matter.

Mrs. O'Sullivan, Shearers street, v. Patrick Wilson, Shearers street. This was a claim for possession of a house in Shearers street.

Complainant stated the house was let to the defendant at a rent of 1s. per week. On September 12th last she ordered a notice to quit to be served on the defendant, as her present husband was prevented from carrying on his business as a carpenter. She wanted the house for her own use.

Mr. Power, solicitor, who appeared for the complainant, said it was a hardship to put out defendant, who paid his rent and rates, but it was perhaps a bigger hardship on the complainant, whose husband was prevented from carrying on his business. As far as he could see, under the Act of 1915, once the complainant stated that she required the house for her own purpose they were bound to give a decree.

The court gave a decree for possession, and allowed defendant time to secure a house.

Denis Flanagan, Kilmallock, summoned John O'Brien, Millmount, for trespass of a goat.

Complainant said this trespass had been going on since the cottages were built in Mount Castle. He would not have brought the matter into court at all were it not for the fact that these people kept the goats in a spirit of defiance. After six or seven years it was quite time for him to assert himself against a long drawn-out trespass. On one occasion he took the goats back to the defendant's wife, who called them all sorts of names.

Defendant's wife, who appeared, said they had a cottage plot in Mr. Flanagan's farm. The goats Mr. Flanagan brought did not belong to her at all. Mr. Flanagan seemed to be under the impression that they were causing all the trespass on his farm, which was not the case. The fences were in a bad state of repair, and the fence of the cottage plot was broken down at her side.

Mr. Flanagan—I know the goats so well for nine years that I could not mistake them. (Laughter.)

After further evidence,

The Court adjourned the case for a month, and pointed out that if the trespass was repeated in the meantime, Mr. Flanagan could again approach the Court, when the matter would be made all right.

Stephen Hickey, Ballysally, Charleville, v. Thomas Higgins, Kilmallock.—The complainant summoned the defendant for having, at Charleville fair, on 10th October, 1921, purchased from him a milch cow, delivery of which he afterwards refused to take.

Mr. Power, solicitor, for defendant.

James Daly, as agent for the vendor, stated he sold the cow to Thomas Higgins for £23 10s. Higgins subsequently refused to take the cow. The cow remained on his hands, and subsequently calved. He could have sold the animals only for Higgins coming along and buying her.

Mr. Power—What time did Higgins buy the cow from you that morning?—It would be about nine o'clock.

What time did Higgins say he would not take the cow?—It was about eleven o'clock. Witness added that he stopped his master from selling the cow as Higgins had purchased her. A man came up and asked him the price of the cow and witness told him that Tom Higgins had the animal bought.

This cow had a crooked leg?—I told this man about the crooked leg before I sold her. The leg was not very crooked. It was not after the cow was sold that Higgins was told that the cow had a crooked leg.

Patrick Forde said he remembered the last fair day in Charleville. He met Daly, and the latter asked him if he knew anybody who would buy a cow, and he suggested Higgins. Higgins came up, and Daly asked £27 for the animal. Higgins offered £20. The cow had a hump on the side of the knee. After offering the £20 Daly showed the defect to Higgins, and they both subsequently finished the deal at £23 10s.

Mr. Power—When did Mr. Higgins refuse to take the cow?—I cannot say.

Daly—He told me he would take the cow immediately he had disposed of another cow. Higgins asked me would he pay me or my master.

Thomas Higgins said he bought the cow from James Daly. As witness was going away Daly said: "Come here, I want you." Daly showed him the cow's leg then, and witness asked him the age of the cow, and he said she was a four-year-old. Witness subsequently told him to go and sell the cow to somebody else.

Mr. Power said where the contract for the sale of goods was £10 or over it should be evinced in writing. If a beast is not marked the bargain must be witnessed in writing. In any transaction over £10 there must be earnest given, and the beast must be marked.

After consideration the Court dismissed the case. They were satisfied that the deal in this case was not completed, and that there was no mark put on the animal.

The representatives of Nicholas Malone, Sarsfield street, v. John Ryan, The Pike.

This was a civil bill claim for £8 13s. 9d., for goods supplied. The case was adjourned to the next court.

John White, Gorbary, summoned Patrick O'Brien, Treadlowes, for abusive and threatening language on the 14th inst.

Complainant said this man came into his yard about eleven o'clock at night. He tried to break in the door, for what purpose witness did not know. Then he said he would break the window. Complainant advised him to go home. Defendant was interfering with his servants.

Denis Finn, a servant in the employment of Mr. White, said he did not see O'Brien in Mr. White's yard, but the man gave his name to Mrs. White as Paddy O'Brien. He wanted to come in to beat witness. When witness would not come out O'Brien insisted on being let in.

Mr. White said that what he wanted was protection for his servants.

President (to defendant)—Were you drunk that night?—You may say drunk. (Laughter.)

Were you in Mr. White's yard that night?—I may be in five yards. (Laughter.)

Denis Finn, an employee of the complainant, summoned the same defendant for a similar offence.

The Court imposed a fine of 2s. 6d. in each case, which was subsequently reduced to 6d. and costs.

The manager of the National Bank (Mr. O'Meara) attended the meeting, and said he had had the mortgage prepared, and that the words the members objected to had been deleted. It was ready for the signatures of the members.

Chairman—I think before we sign it our solicitor should see it.

Mr. Ferris—You have already agreed to sign it.

Manager—Your solicitor has already approved of it.

Chairman—At the same time, I would like to have both documents compared.

Manager—You cannot go behind what you approved of. If there was any difference in the documents you could take exception to it at any time. I can guarantee that it is a correct certified copy. The draft was prepared from the document, and there can be no change or alteration.

Both documents were compared by the chairman and assistant clerk, the latter of whom remarked: "The bank seal is not attached to it."

Chairman—It need not be.

Mr. Ferris suggested signing the document, adding that they were only making a mess of it.

Chairman—We are not making a mess of it.

Manager—If you do not sign it to day you cannot get it signed for a fortnight.

Mr. Ferris—And there are a lot of people in want of money, and I know it.

After further discussion the members decided to complete the mortgage.

KILFEACLE RACES.

Bad Weather Tells Against Big Attendance.

Mr. Jerry Kiely's Double.

Kilfeacle horse and pony races were held last Sunday over a splendid course, kindly given for the occasion by Mr. Kennedy. The course is the best we have seen this year, and afforded spectators a full view of the contests from start to finish. The weather, unfortunately, was most unfavourable, and greatly militated against a large attendance. Still, there was a fairly numerous gathering, and the racing was interesting, notwithstanding that the fields were small. In one race only two horses came under the starter's orders, and the pair were very unequally matched. The Green winning by nearly half a lap from The Mall. In the first event Irish Eyes was much fancied, but was beaten early in the race by Miss Ryan's mount, disappointing a large crowd of admirers. Mr. Jerry Kiely, Tankardstown, brought off a double per Wild Daisy, winning the second and fourth races, the owner himself riding in the latter. In the fourth race Rolling Home was a competitor, but, as usual, ran out. In the first race there were five horses, in the second four, in the third two, and in the fourth four. Mr. O'Dwyer, hon. secretary, and the committee had all the arrangements made in an up-to-date manner, and the Volunteers maintained good order throughout the evening. Details:—

Thomastown Plate of 8 sovs. An open flat race for ponies 13.3 and under. Weight, 8st; 7lbs allowed for every inch under. Distance, 1½ miles. Miss S. Ryan's Johnny Maher (3/1). 1 Mr. J. Baragry's Fly Boy (3/1). 2 The race lay between Johnny Maher and Fly Boy from the start. After the first lap Johnny Maher took up the running and won easily.

The Kilfeacle Plate of 12 sovs. An open flat race for horses. Two and a half miles. Weights, 11st; four-year-olds allowed 7lbs. Mr. J. Kiely's Wild Daisy (1/4)... 1 Mr. S. Ryan's Old Sport (2/1)... 2 Old Sport led for two laps, when Wild Daisy took control of matters and won by six lengths.

The Subscribers' Plate of 10 sovs. An open flat race for ponies 14.2 and under. Weights, 9st; 7lbs allowed for every inch under. Two miles. Mr. M. O'Dwyer's The Green (1/4) 1 Mr. G. O'Dwyer's The Mall (5/1) 2 Only two candidates came under the starter's orders. The Green allowed The Mall to do the pncing until the last lap, when he took up the running, and won by fifty lengths.

Tipperary Town Plate of 10 sovs. An open flat race for horses. Two and a half miles. Weights, 10st 7lbs; four-year-olds allowed 7lbs. Mr. Kiely's Wild Daisy (evens) ... 1 Mr. D. Murray's Dark Rosaleen (2/1) 2 Mr. D. O'Brien's (Tipperary) Dollie set the pace for the first four laps, with Wild Daisy second. She was well ridden, but when put the question by P.Waddy she replied with an emphatic "No." She ran into third place.

The Potato Crop.

Owing to the poor crops a scarcity of potatoes is expected early in the coming year. In some instances the tubers are soft and bad for eating, and in others not so present. The farmers are now busily engaged digging the crop.

Live-Weight Pig Market.

At the market on Wednesday pigs were sold at 53 15s. per cwt.

Golden Barracks Evacuated.

On Tuesday last Golden barracks were evacuated by the police, and all the furniture, beds, etc., removed in military lorries.

Cashel Teachers' Association.

The quarterly meeting of the above was held on Saturday, the 22nd inst., in the City Hall, Cashel. Mr. D. C. Maher, B.A., presiding. The new programme of instruction was adopted provided guarantees for the prevention of victimisation of existing teachers, etc., forthcoming. With regard to the 15th day and evening question, the meeting decided that the present is not an opportune time for taking drastic action. With the following resolution, proposed by Miss Kennedy, seconded by Miss Abercrombie, and passed in silence, the meeting adjourned: "That we tender to our esteemed colleague, Mr. T. Feehan, Ballyrasa national school, our heartfelt sympathy in his sad bereavement occasioned by the death of his wife, and we express our deep sense of her loss to our organisation, of which for ten years she was a sterling member."

Mission Concluded.

On Sunday last the Mission, conducted by Rev. Fathers Gill, S.J., and Flynn, S.J., was brought to a close. There was a special closing ceremony for the women at three o'clock and at seven o'clock for the men. The services were most impressive, and a fitting conclusion to the fortnight's devotional exercises.

Death of Mr. D. O'Keefe, The Rock.

Considerable regret was occasioned in Cashel district by the death of Mr. Daniel O'Keefe, which occurred on the 23rd ult., after an illness of some months' duration. The interment took place in the Rock Cemetery following Requiem Office and High Mass in the parish church. The attendance was extremely large, and amply testified to the sympathy of the general public. The following clergy officiated at the obsequies: Right Rev. Dean Ryan, P.P., V.G.; Rev. D. Duggan, C.C.; and Rev. W. O'Dwyer, C.C. The chief mourners were—Mrs. M. O'Keefe (widow); Wm. O'Keefe, Ballinlina (brother); Mrs. M. Dwyer (sister); Messrs. D. O'Keefe, Garramore; J. Dwyer, Thomastown; and W. Walsh, Ballinlina (nephews); Mrs. J. Dwyer, Knockglass, and Miss Nora Dwyer, Thomastown (nieces); Miss Cissie O'Keefe, Garramore; Messrs. M. and J. Dwyer, Ballinure; Mrs. M. Ryan, Ladyswell street, Cashel; Mrs. Maher, Thurlesbeg; Messrs. John, Thomas and Patrick Maher, Thurlesbeg; Messrs. Patrick and William Maher, Thurlesbeg; Mrs. J. Dunphy, Bank place, Cashel; Mr. D. Maher, Cashel; and Mr. P. Maher, Thurlesbeg (cousins).

Cashel Steamrolling.

Cashel Urban Council having obtained a grant of £2,250 from the Ministry of Transport for employment amongst ex-Service men, and the money being devoted to stone-breaking, the council has launched upon a scheme of steam-rolling. The very worst spot in the road has been taken in hand, and Kila Hill, which has become dangerous to traffic, will soon be thoroughly steam-rolled. Under the competent supervision of Mr. J. Connolly, surveyor, the work is being most carefully done, and when the whole scheme has been finished Cashel roads and streets will be again amongst the best in the country.

GOLDEN.

Wedding Bells.

The principal event of last week was the marriage of Mr. James Hogan, chemist, Callan, Co. Kilkenny, second son of Mr. J. C. Hogan and Mrs. Hogan, Athassel House, Golden, and Miss Kathleen O'Brien, only daughter of the late Kendall E. O'Brien, M.P. for Mid-Tipperary, and chairman of Tipperary No. 1 Rural District Council from the passing of the Local Government Act till the time of his lamented death. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. O'Ryan, an Oblate Father hailing from the Hollyford mountains, where he first saw the light of day. Father O'Ryan was a lifelong friend of the late Mr. O'Brien, and in the arms of this distinguished son of Tipperary the deceased breathed his last. Father O'Ryan was assisted at the wedding ceremony by the Rev. J. McGrath, C.C., Goldbeary. The reception was held at Athassel House, the home of the bride company, and was attended by a large company, who did full justice to the good things provided. The happy young couple left amidst scenes of rejoicing by the four o'clock train for the metropolis for the honeymoon. I wish the happy pair a long and prosperous future, which, from their amiability and kindness, is well deserved.

Gloomy Outlook.

As far as human intelligence can foresee, the outlook of the Irish farmer during the coming winter is best described as gloomy. How to skirt it is otherwise with cattle and sheep a step on the market. The reputation of Canadian stores, almost in unbroken price, barley unsaleable, even at pre-war prices, the agricultural labourer with no money to buy the necessary of life for himself and family?

Scoundrelism.

A very unpropitious act of idleness was perpetrated in the Golden area during a certain night of last week, when the cattle of a very respectable farmer were driven on to his turpentine, presumably for the destruction of the crop and the probability of the cattle being burnt through overfeeding. Such acts are reprehensible, and every avenue open to our I.R.A. should be used to trace the culprits. To put it mildly, such acts are un-English and unmanly, and deserve the most condign punishment. Surely law and order must be rescued from the chaos of the past few years if Ireland is to live and prosper. The farmer referred to is a quiet, inoffensive man, highly respected by his friends and neighbours, and a generous subscriber to every national and charitable claim. This act of private spite is severely condemned in the locality as a new form of Bolshevism, but of a very low and cunning kind. I may mention the cattle were driven through a gateway which had been fastened up to prevent an outlet; therefore no doubt can be entertained as to the deliberateness of the perpetrator or perpetrators of the nefarious act—an act to do ordinary justice to my neighbours, hitherto unknown and unheard of in this district.

Obituary.

I deeply regret to chronicle the death of Mr. Patrick Lonergan, Daungan, Golden, at a fairly advanced age. Deceased was a man highly respected for his truthfulness, honesty, and integrity, and endeared himself to everybody who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. In his early days, at the inception of the G.A.A., he prominently figured in the football matches against such crack teams as the Boherowers, Arravale Rovers, and the famous Rosannas. In social life he was an enjoyable companion, inoffensive and unobtrusive. A God-fearing man was honest Pat, "true to faith and fatherland" to his latest breath.

HOSPITAL.

A Tribute to Dr. Hayes, T.D.

Mr. L. J. Walsh, in his book "On my Keeping and in Theirs," just published, pays a tribute to Dr. J. Hayes, T.D. for East Limerick, in the following terms:—"I cannot close this account of prominent camp officials (in Ballykinlar internment camp) without paying a tribute to Dr. Hayes, T.D., who was in charge of the hospital during the greater part of my interment. Hayes is a man of beautiful character—as kind as a mother, as simple as a child, and as humble as a saint. There is no need to refer to his courage and his ardent patriotism, for his Easter week record speaks for itself. But the man is so unassuming that one might spend his life with him without discovering, except by accident, that he had ever done or risked anything out of the common. It meant a great deal for the health and happiness of the camp to have a man of his type in the hospital; and, whatever grievances we may have against our old friend, Sir Hamar Greenwood, we must at least be thankful to him for that, when he rounded the rest of us up, he took care to arrest Dr. Hayes and lock him in along with us."

Vacated.

The local police barracks was vacated in the early hours of last Monday morning and the several police transferred to Brull. It is stated several other police barracks throughout the county have been similarly dealt with.

Lynch Memorial Concert.

Last Sunday evening a highly successful entertainment was organised by the local St. John's Diocesan Club in aid of the Lynch memorial fund, was held in the hall. "That well-known comedy, 'The Lord Mayor,' followed by 'The Mayhew' farce, entitled 'Tactics,' were excellently staged by St. John's Club, Limerick, and the various artists received well-merited applause. The hall was packed to its utmost capacity, there being scarcely standing room for those present. A dance followed, and an enjoyable night was spent by those present.

Mr. Frank Neiland.

Mr. Frank Neiland, Brull, who was sentenced to five years' penal servitude last January in connection with the Cahergollumore dance tragedy, has arrived home, having been released on medical grounds some months ago. Since then he has been in a nursing home in Bournemouth, whence he was transferred to the Mater Hospital, Dublin, to undergo an operation. Despite all the hardship he has undergone he looks very well, and his many friends in East Limerick wish him a speedy recovery.

Escaped?

It is stated that Mr. D. O'Connell is one of those who some weeks ago escaped from Spike Island internment camp. He has been prominently identified with the Volunteer movement since its inception, and at the time of his arrest near Killaloe was on the run. The business premises of his father were burned down as an official reprisal for the Dromkeen ambush.

KILMALLOCK.

Lighting of the Streets.

A meeting of representatives of the Kilmallock local division of the District Council and representatives of the Kilmallock Electric Light Co. was held in Kilmallock on Sunday. Those present were Messrs. T. J. Campion, T. J. Carroll, T. Conna, D. Cussen, M. J. Mitchell, representing the Kilmallock Electric Light Co., and Messrs. J. McGrath, J. Maguire, and C. E. Cleary, acting clerk, representing the council. After a protracted discussion on the request of the Electric Light Co. for a grant towards the public lighting of the streets, and the council's desire to remedy the many grievances in connection with the local Fair Green, the council's representatives agreed to make a favourable recommendation to the next council meeting, and the following resolution was drawn up and signed by them:—"We, the representatives of the Kilmallock electoral division, having attended a joint meeting as between representatives of Kilmallock Electric Light Co. and the district councillors of the said area, recommend to the council that steps be at once taken to strike a rate of 8d. in the £ to raise the sum of £114 for the purpose of public lighting in the town, which lighting the Electric Light Co. agrees to carry out for the above sum to the satisfaction of the council, and we recommend that the necessary powers be at once sought under the Public

AERIDHEACHT AT CULLEN.

One of the many gatherings which, since the Truce, have been organized to foster and develop a truly national spirit and incidentally to give some amusement and necessary relaxation to a people subjected for years to the strain and hardships of a trying time (a correspondent writes), was held on Sunday last, in the historic centre of Cullen o'gCuanac. The meeting was held in a most suitable and beautifully enclosed field, kindly lent by Mr. Denis Quinlan, D.C. But the morning was threatening and the day bitterly cold. There were, too, many counter attractions within the area, so that the crowd, though not small, was not quite so large as more favourable circumstances would have made it. The Aeridheacht was to have been opened by the South Tipperary representative, Mr. P. J. Moloney, T.D., but important National work prevented him from attending, and a message of regret which he forwarded (through the post) two days before to Mr. Quinlan was not delivered till Monday. In this he emphasised the necessity of having the present opportunity used to the full to perfect the various organizations—"Sinn Fein Clubs," "Cumann na mBan," "Gaelic League," &c., and brought to such a high state of perfection that no efforts of the enemy should be able to suppress them. These organizations were in fact to be the medium through which the recommendations and mandates of the Dail should find suitable expression. The necessity of absolutely ignoring all but the National authority was in the letter strongly stressed.

In the absence of Mr. Moloney, the proceedings were opened in Irish by Eamonn Macsheeh, who, after welcoming the audience, dwelt on the recent and more ancient glories of the district of Cullen, which, according to the celebrated historian Miss Carey, was famous for its scholars, its artists, its workers in gold and bronze, when those who, with the sword camouflaged in the sermon on the Mount, now hypocritically profess to civilize us, were clothed only in the juice of wild berries, the only substitute they then possessed for the more delectable and more modern lion cloth.

The speaker expressed to Mr. P. J. Moloney, whose absence all regretted, the sympathy of the meeting not merely for his sufferings and his material sacrifices but for the loss of his patriotic son who gave his young life that the nation might live, who were out of life at the nation's call as if leaving it were but a start by an earlier train, who in idea and patriotic deed lived up to the philosophic dictum that merit lies not in length of life but in worthy achievement. Of him and his comrades Ireland will say—

Their names are listed, their kenne sung, on bitter tears are shed, We bury sorrow in their graves, Patience we cast aside, Within the gloom we hear a voice that, once was ours to know, 'Tis Freedom, Freedom Calling, Arise 'Mo Craobhain Croi'.

The speaker pointed out that while the Gaelic League was mainly concerned with the revival of the Irish language, it was by the creation of a national spirit, of a sense of national self-respect, of a feeling of proprietorship in and duty to Ireland, its people and all things Irish inseparably bound up with what were generally regarded as bigger issues. Due regard to history, to language, to Irish tradition were absolutely essential not merely to acquire but to preserve national liberty. He expressed a hope that out of the present Conference would come an honorable settlement giving our people control over an Ireland, one and indivisible, with unfettered sway over its own laws, its own finance, its own trade, its own education; in fact over all those interests which go to make up a national life. Then only would the Irish language get its proper place not merely in the education but in the life and economy of the nation. Then only would the history of our land, its traditions, its historic spots, its very place-names become to us living things, mines of interest and information. Then would Irish patriotism become not a negative thing, an anti-this or an anti that, but a positive force swayed by love of land and all its interests. The speaker wound up by saying that Ireland has gone past the stage when her people can be kept debating and squabbling while her interests are being battered at the ends of the earth by those who term themselves statesmen. The Ireland that transformed

Health Act for above purpose. We further recommend to the council that a public meeting should be summoned by that body forthwith for the purpose of dealing with the question of revenue from the Kilmallock Fair Green."

Superannuation of Officials.

This matter is to be dealt with at a special meeting of the Kilmallock Council.

[Much matter from District Correspondents at Cashel, Cappamore, etc., received only on Friday morning, and thus too late for this edition.

Will correspondents please note that matter should be sent as early in the week as possible? Friday and Saturday are our busiest days, and news of the early part of the week reaching us at the week-end runs but a poor chance of insertion.—Ed. "Tipperaryman." ]

the League of Nations into a League of Nations has sufficient power to prevent the thousand millions and all its unpaid interest due to America from being squandered in Ireland in crushing that spirit of self-determination for which selfish and unscrupulous politicians allege that Europe was drenched in blood. The clean slate and the wiping out of debt were interests for Ireland and Germany as well as Britain. Nor must a Disarmament Conference disarm only rivals and enemies, leaving Britain untouched. Liberty should be regarded as the birth-right of all. In the words of President Lincoln:—"Those who deny freedom to others deserve it not for themselves, and under the rule of a just God cannot long maintain it."

The programme included items by the following:—Cullen Girls School, choros; "Kevin Barry and Shaun Treacy" songs; Cullen Boys' School Choir, an Irish song; Miss B. Ryan, Newtown, Oola, hornpipe and Irish reel; Barna National School girls, four-hand reel; also the fairies reel; J. Woods, Tipperary, song; M. Hackett, Cullen; Mr. Birrane, Doon, and Mr. O'Connor, Nickel, hornpipe and double; Cullen Girls School, four-hand reel; selections of Irish airs on the violin by D. McCormack, Cullen.

Mr. Denis Quinlan having in a brief but eloquent speech, thanked the promoters and those who contributed to the programme, as well as all who attended, the proceedings terminated.

THE RECENT TIPPERARY SHOOTINGS.

Young Volunteer Charged Goes On Hunger-Strike.

At a special court in Tipperary Military Barracks last Saturday a young man named Joseph Cahill, a member of the I.R.A., Bansha Road, Tipperary, was charged before Major Colley, R.M., with the attempted murder of two police constables at Tipperary on September 28th. Having taken the evidence, Major Colley returned accused for trial at the Winter Assizes in Cork, on bail. The C.P.S. enquired if there was any application for bail, and answered in the negative. Subsequently the accused notified the Officer Commanding Troops at Tipperary that unless released unconditionally he would go on hunger-strike on the following (Tuesday) morning, and it is reported that he has done so.

It will be recalled that on the night of September 28th Cahill, a Miss Tierney, and a private of the Lincolnshire Regt. were wounded at the cross of Main street and Davis street, in the centre of the town, and that shortly afterwards William Corbett, a married man of only twenty-seven years, who was not a member of the I.R.A., was fatally shot in the Town Hall Picture-drome.

An official statement issued the following day from Dublin Castle asserted that there had been an exchange of shots between civilians and police, and that two policemen had been wounded, a civilian shot dead, and two civilians and a soldier wounded.

Following an inquiry by Com. G. Power, I.R.A., into the matter, a summary of evidence was published to the effect that the aggression came from two members of the Royal Irish Constabulary, and that Cahill, a Miss Tierney, and a soldier were wounded by their firing at the main cross of the town, and that Corbett was subsequently shot by uniformed men.

THE SHOOTING OF WILLIAM CORBETT.

Cinema Attendant's Statement.

The "Irish Bulletin" publishes a signed statement by one of the employees at Tipperary Town Hall, in reply to a statement in the "Morning Post" that Wm. Corbett was shot at the Town Hall by members of the I.R.A.

The attendant asserts that the shooting was the work of three members of the Crown forces, whose names are given, and that after the shooting other members of the forces came on the scene and would not allow anyone to bring the dying man a priest or get him a drink of water.

CLONMEL STATIONMASTER KIDNAPPED.

A number of men on Monday night called at the private residence of Mr. J. H. Walsh, stationmaster at Clonmel, took him out, placed him in a motor-car, and drove away to an unknown destination. On Wednesday afternoon Mr. Walsh returned safe and sound to Clonmel.

AN ACARTY JUVENILE (BOYS' BRIGADE) SPORTS.

A correspondent writes:—"The above sports were brought off on Sunday last in cold but dry weather. The programme included a marathon race from Moanavaun cross to Anacarty sports field, distance about four miles, in which several plucky youths took part. The little fellows set off at a fast pace and, running to the best of their ability, kept close company throughout the entire journey, and not even the Tipperary veteran, Crowe, could dash to the tape with more determination than did these youngsters. The field events were numerous, and all were keenly contested, and in almost every race there was an exciting finish, thanks to the efficient handicapping of the Irish champion, Tim Crowe, who has had long experience not alone all over the Emerald Isle, but in England, Scotland, Wales, and other countries. Very popular features of the day's programme were a sack race, donkey derby, and a three-legged race, which caused endless fun.

A hurling match between Anacarty and Cappawhite brought the day to a finish. Cappawhite showed their superiority by a small margin. Mr. Willie Quinlan, the well-known hurler, acted as referee, and gave every satisfaction to both teams, who sought victory on every inch of the field.

This little fixture was entirely organised by the youths of the parish, who deserve great credit for the summer in which they carried out their programme.

All youngsters participating seemed to be more than pleased, especially as no competitor won more than one 1st or 2nd prize. Thanks to the splendid judgment of Ireland's greatest marathonist, who himself last July was one of the two men out of 10 starters credited with running the full distance in the great Walsbor to London Marathon, and in every instance showed his superiority over the Swedes, Italians, Canadian and French men together with several noted English runners and Army Champions included.

The winners at the little meeting were O'Brien's, Ryan's, Dwyer's, Breen's and Corbett's. It is pleasing to note that all come from the same island as "Tipperary Tim," and I hope these young athletes will follow up the fine old manly sports of our fatherland and achieve the proud distinction that our Irish champions have gained in any field in every clime.

TOLLS AT FAIRS AND MARKETS.

To the Editor of "The Tipperaryman."

Dear Sir,—We live to-day at a testing-time in Irish history. Every institution and custom is subject to analysis and valuation. Everything that the public has to pay for must rightly be made to serve the public interest. Amongst matters upon which public inquiry should be concentrated is that of tolls at fairs. It is well to understand the origin and purpose of tolls. In far-back times they were originated by the national authority, the guild or some such public executive power. They appear to have been partly a means of raising public revenue and partly a means of providing funds for the cleaning, lighting, and protection of market towns. In time, by means of farming-out methods and by other rather doubtful means, the collection of tolls fell into the hands of private individuals. The proceeds came to be pocketed by these private persons without any advantage to the town or village in which the fair or market was held. It is time that in some instances, such as the cities of Dublin and Limerick, where the people had foresight enough to preserve their rights, these tolls are the property of the Corporation and a valuable source of public revenue.

The time, I submit, has come when these tolls should be made to serve the public interest. The individual does nothing to create them. They are the result neither of enterprise, capital, nor labour. It is difficult to see even how they could ever be justly sold, as the have, been. Tolls if they are to continue to be collected should be applied to the public welfare. If money collected for tolls is applied to the cleaning or lighting, or drainage of towns or villages, or to the provision of better housing, or the erecting of public libraries or recreation grounds, it would be understandable. But how the people tolerate the custom of any individual taking a toll on every best that is sold and putting the whole proceeds into his pocket passes all comprehension. I trust you will find space in your columns for this letter which may possibly lead to a calm and comprehensive discussion of this important matter.

Yours faithfully,
